Trains of the Wallkill Valley railroad are expected to go over these detour tracks in the Broadway crossing project area next Monday or Tuesday, Henry Millonig, state engineer said today. Secret Session Is Held With Friendly Nations

Bard Against Use Of A-Bomb Unless U.N. Threatened

Annandale-on-the-Hudson, Dec. 1—The atom bomb should not be used in the Korean situation "unless the majority of the United Nations agrees that the survival of the UN forces in Korea and the preservation of international law of justice and of the dignity of man are seriously imperiled" an overwhelming majority of the Bard College community voted tonight after a series of special meetings held throughout the day.

President Truman was also urged in the resolution adopted to redouble his efforts "to convince the Chinese government that our aims are not in conflict with their legitimate interests" and to persuade the Chinese people that our attitude toward them "is one of peace and friendship."

"Our policy must demonstrate at all times to men of all creeds and races that we are motivated exclusively by our desire to maintain peace based on justice."

The meeting also urged that other colleges hold similar discussions to mobilize student opinion.

More than 300 students, faculty members and employes of the college met first during the morning to discuss the atom bomb question as a result of an emergency call issued late Thursday night by President James H. Case, Jr. All classes and appointments were suspended during the day to permit everyone to participate.

After two hours of vigorous discussion a resolution committee of student and faculty was appointed which brought in its report at the second session this evening.

President Case in his call states "it is such critical hours of decision that our citizens and above all those to whom the nation must look for its military security should search their minds and hearts for the wisdom and courage essential to a considered judgment." He urged the members of the community to make their opinions known to President Truman" who now bears the load for full responsibility for the most far reaching decision any man has ever had to make."

Hurley Avenue Girl Hurt in 9W Accident

Miss Virginia St. Leger, 23, of 143 Hurley avenue received multiple abrasions when the automobile her father was driving became involved in an accident with two trucks at 5:50 p. m., Friday on Route 9W three miles south of Port Ewen, state police reported.

Troopers said the accident occurred shortly after a trailerless tractor unit driven by Harry Clark, 35, of Philadelphia, had run out of fuel and had stalled in the southbound lane. A tractor trailer driven by Albert Jacklous, 36, of Winchester, Pa., stopped and the drivers placed a rope from the rear of the trailer to the front of Clark's tractor, so that the stalled vehicle could be towed away. Troopers said the two trucks were about to pull away when the automobile driven by Gaspard D. St. Leger, 60, overtook them and struck the rear of the second vehicle, sending it into the rear of the Jacklous trailer.

India Stresses That China Better Get Out of Korea

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The United States will probably disclose late today, a delegation spokesman said, just what action it wants the United Nations to take against the Chinese Communists.

Secret negotiations are going on, he revealed, between the U. S. Delegation to the U.N. and Security Council members plus those countries which have contributed to the fighting in Korea.

Russia has not been consultd, he said, and neither has the Chinese Communist delegation headed by Gen. Wu Hsiu-chuan.

It is known, however, that India's Sir Bengal N. Rau met yesterday with Wu. Rau said nothing was accomplished at the meeting, but it is believed he is continuing his efforts to convince the Peiping government that a peaceful withdrawal from Korea would be in its own interest.

India, as a Security Council member, is one of the countries whose views the U. S. has sought.

The purpose of the locked-door talks is to try to reach agreement on a resolution for presentation to the assembly which is certain of approval by most countries outside the Soviet bloc.

Veteran observers here were amazed at the tight-lipped silence maintained by the participants and could recall no past occasion when "leaks" were so few. They attributed this to the extreme gravity of the world situation which make the usually garrulous diplomats afraid that an unconsidered word might touch off the fires of war. "Never before," said one, "has so little been said about so much by so many."

The American spokesman emphasized that the U. S. was sincerely trying to get the frank opinions of other countries about the situation and was by no means

Government Will Buy Ulster Apples For School Lunch

The Ulster County Production and Marketing Administration Committee has announced that the Department of Agriculture "will consider" the purchase of McIntosh and Cortland apples in the principal producing areas of the state, including Ulster county.

The apples purchased under the program will be used for school lunch and welfare distribution. The purchases will be limited to outlets available to the Department of Agriculture.

This year's apple harvest exceeded even the bumper crop of 1949. It is estimated that approximately 2,000,000 bushels of apples were in storage in Ulster county on November 1, according to a Farm Bureau survey.

Growers wishing to sell apples to the government should contact the purchase representative of the County P.M.A. Committee, 54 John street, not later than 5 p. m. December 15. Apples must meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade or better with a minimum size of two and one-half inches.

Prices offered by the government are $1.80 per bushel for McIntosh and $1.65 per bushel for Cortlands in new bushel baskets or good clean Eastern apple boxes.

These prices are somewhat less than commercial prices received by Ulster county growers in October. McIntosh of equal grade brought an approximate avearge of $2 per bushel.

Purchases will be made only from growers, cooperative associations of growers, or growers' agents, subject to the recommendations of the county advisory committee and the approval of the county P.M.A. committee. Inspection for grades and quality will be done at the time of loading by federal-state inspectors at the growers' expense.

The estimate of 2,000,000 bushels of apples in storage in Ulster county was made by doubling the number of apples known to be in storage in one-half the storages

U.S. Economy Under Strain As Shift Is to War Production

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Government reports are beginning to show signs of the predicted temporary minor misses in the economic machinery as it shifts from civilian to military production.

They seem to indicate that:

1. The strictly civilian-goods boom is passing its peak—perhaps has done so already.

2. Controls applied to slow the civilian boom and so free workers for defense expansion are causing slack a bit faster than it can be taken up by the budding rearmaments program.

Officials had long anticipated these developments. In fact, they expect things to get worse before getting better despite efforts to keep the shift-over disruption at a minimum.

There were several indications yesterday that the economy was undergoing some strain in the transition, although first effects were fairly faint. Among them:

1. The Census Bureau reported a dip in factory employment contributed to a 300,000 increase last month in the number of jobless. The bureau said that "may have been due to temporary dislocations in industries affected by the defense program."

2. One auto making concern, Kaiser-Frazer, reported curbs on instalment purchasing had cut car buying so much that K-F has been forced to halve its production and payroll although it has not been called upon for any defense production. It asked a new government loan to keep car production going.

3. The Commerce Department said private homebuilding took a larger-than-seasonal 10 per cent drop in November, first month following adoption of mortgage credit curbs aimed at deflating the housing boom to conserve materials for defense.

4. The Federal Reserve Board reported that the increase in

Senators Say No Yank Reserves Available for Korean Warfare to Help in Crisis

Defense Line Planned, No Counter Offensive Is Contemplated

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Informed senators said today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur apparently is going to have to fight out the present critical stages of the Korean war without any sizeable reenforcements.

Some of them added that any decision which might free MacArthur from the present U. S.-imposed ban against bombing Chinese Communists supply lines in Manchuria probably will await the outcome of talks President Truman begins here Tuesday with Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain.

Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday that an unspecified number of troops are on the way to embattled United Nations forces from Belgium, Colombia, Greece and Luxembourg. These are expected to involve little more than token contributions.

The President didn't mention any additional American units and three senators in a position to know said the lawmakers have been informed that there are no reserves considered available which can be sent to the aid of MacArthur's outnumbered troops. The three senators asked that they not be identified by name.

The trio said that as the strategy was outlined to them MacArthur would try to consolidate a defense line and dig in for a stand against the Chinese Communists. They said that so far as they can learn there is no present hope of a counter-offensive.

Not Hopeless

MacArthur himself has described the situation in Korea as critical, but not hopeless.

None of the three senators would forecast what happens after a defense line is formed.

But one of them said: "The

Nine Catholics Are Convicted as Spies In Czech Court

Vatican Is Called Center for Spies of U. S.; Defendants Are Not to Appeal

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Dec. 2 (AP)—Nine Roman Catholic churchmen—including a bishop and two abbots—were convicted of espionage and high treason today in an alleged Vatican plot to overthrow Czechoslovakia's Communist government.

The accused, who had joined the prosecution in condemning The Vatican as a spy center for American capitalism, received sentences ranging from 10 years to life imprisonment.

A seven-judge Prague state court meeting in gloomy Pankrac prison imposed the life term on Benedictine Abbot Jan Opasek of Prague's Brevnov Monastery. In addition, the 37-year-old cleric was fined 100,00 crowns (about $2,000).

Truman's Request Starts Action on Checking of Red Plans

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Congress appeared ready today to pump another $17,850,000,000 into the national defense effort to help check what President Truman called "the imperialist designs of the Soviet Union."

Hardly had the President asked for the money yesterday when the House Appropriations Committee started hearings.

At the end of the first of probably 10 days of hearings, committee members, Republicans and Democrats alike, told newsmen privately there is nothing much that Congress can do except provide the money.

A top Republican summed up the committee attitude this way: "It's a lot of money and it's going to mean heavier taxes for everybody but we just can't take any chances now. It would cost much more to lose the war."

There was little early inclination to try to trim the new military budget, which would boost to around $42,000,000,000 the funds appropriated by Congress for national defense for the year ending next June 30.

In fact, some influential House members said the new amount might not be enough and more may be needed later.

All but $1,050,000,000 of the new fund would be given to the army, the navy, the air force and the marine corps to put muscle on the defense machine and to buy the tools of warfare, mainly airplanes, tanks and guns.

The $1,050,000,000 was earmarked for the Atomic Energy Commission, which plans to expand its atom bomb production capacity.

Name Deadline

Congressional leaders hurriedly fixed a tentative timetable for final action on a bill providing the extra money. They mentioned Dec. 21 as a possible deadline.

The Senate Appropriations Committee arranged to start hearings Monday, questioning witnesses as quickly as the House committee finishes with them.

Among those closeted with the House committee yesterday were Secretary of Defense Marshall and General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. They were accompanied by an array of generals and admirals.

Rep. Mahon (D.-Tex.), who is conducting the hearings, told newsmen the committee received only an overall report on the tense international situation. The details, he said, will be provided by later witnesses, starting Monday.

Meanwhile, a new draft call, issued yesterday for 50,000 men in February, raised the total since the first call in September to 300,000. And the navy and air force lowered their standards for volunteers to speed expansion toward the 2,800,000 man goal announced by the President.

$8,800 Judgment Against New York State Reinstated

Award Was Made by Court of Claims for Injuries Sustained on Onteora Trail

The Court of Appeals has reinstated a judgment of $8,800 against the State of New York which was awarded by the Court of Claims to Marilyn Dudley and Frederick Cook for injuries which they sustained when they were thrown from a motorcycle at the Walker turn on the Onteora Trail. An action was commenced by the claimants on the theory that the accident was caused by reason of the negligent and defective manner in which the roadway was maintained.

In November 1949 the Appellate Division, Third Department, reversed the judgment in favor of the claimants, Cook and Dudley, and dismissed the claim on the grounds the defect in question was not of sufficient magnitude to predicate liability on the part of the state.

Charles Gaffney, who appeared for the claimants before the Court of Claims, with John E. Egan of counsel, appealed from that decision to the Court of Appeals and that court has now reversed the Appellate Division and reinstated the judgment. In affirming the original judgment, with costs in both courts, the Court of Appeals held that the Court of Claims findings were in accord with the weight of evidence and all judges concurred without opinion. Nathaniel Goldstein, attorney general, appeared for the State of New York.

Subsequent to the accident Marilyn Dudley and Frederick Cook were married and in July of this year Frederick Cook was killed while at work on the New Paltz State Teachers College when a blast set off in construction work showered workers with debris. The award will now be paid to his estate and the widow.

The accident in which the claimants were injured was caused, claimants alleged, by a defect in the pavement where the concrete strips of pavement had been defective for several years and no warning signs had been erected to warn traffic of this condition. The accident happened at night as the claimants were riding over the highway.

Massie's car was tagged the other night while parked without lights in front of his home. He posted a $2 bond and forfeited it when he did not appear in traffic court.

Enemy Now Is 25 Miles From City

General Says Situation Grows More Critical for Allies by Hour in Korea

Face Half Million

State of Undeclared War Exists for 200,000 Frontline Troops

Tokyo, Dec. 2 (AP)—Chinese forces surged southward tonight in an enveloping Red tide on the approaches to Pyongyang.

One Red manpower mass was reported within 25 miles of the gravely threatened city.

It is the only capital that ever had been liberated from communism.

Pyongyang was the Red Korean government seat until it was taken over by United Nations forces Oct. 20.

General MacArthur warned that the situation in all North Korea was growing more critical by the hour for the allies. But it is not hopeless, he said.

The Chinese have thrown a half-million well armed troops into Korea for their offensive against the United Nations forces, MacArthur said in an unusual statement answering written questions submitted by war correspondents.

He would not disclose the number of U.N. frontline ground troops in Korea but it is believed to be about 200,000.

MacArthur said: "A state of undeclared war now exists between the Chinese Communists and the United Nations forces."

More Reds Get Ready

The high commander said half of the 500,000 Red Chinese force was arrayed against his troops; the other half already was swarming south inside Korea to join the battle.

The Chinese early winter campaign apparently had two quick objectives:

1. To smash through the Eighth Army's exposed right flank, take Pyongyang and pin the remnants of 110,000 frontline troops in Northwest Korea against the Yellow Sea.

2. To drive eastward to the Sea of Japan and isolate the 10th Corps' scattered columns of three American and two Korean divisions in Northeast Korea.

A spokesman said the Eighth Army, fighting desperately to hold a defense line 30 miles north of Pyongyang, "will not withdraw from any position or from anywhere until forced to do so by enemy action."

If the Eighth Army is forced to retreat, he added, "it will destroy things of military value to the enemy. This military policy will apply if it becomes necessary to evacuate . . . Pyongyang."

Stream Out of City

The city of 300,000 population virtually was in a state of siege. Some allied units and many refugees streamed south out of the city.

Communist leaflets strewn over the streets of Pyongyang said, "you shall be free from the enemy soon." They urged Koreans in the old Red capital to "break down transportation and communications systems, the trains and warehouses . . ."

Korean allied sympathizers warned that a fifth column had swept into the city among the hordes of white-clad refugees.

Independent Civil Defense Agency Set Up by Truman

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Without waiting for Congress to grease the wheels, President Truman has pressed the starter on civil defense machinery geared to go in the event of an attack on the United States.

Just 24 hours after handing the lawmakers a plan to put civil defense under a single powerful administrator responsible only to himself, Mr. Truman yesterday issued an executive order which:

1. Set up a new Federal Civil Defense Administration (FCDA), and—

2. Named former Florida governor, Millard F. Caldwell, Jr., as its $17,500 a year administrator.

The President acted while lawmakers maneuvered for control of the bill he proposed Thursday to create an FCDA and give its administrator far more power than now is available.

Truman's move was interpreted in some informed quarters as an effort to get an independent civil defense agency set up and staffed as a going concern to meet any emergency pending congressional action. There was no immediate congressional comment.

The President said the basic purpose of the new administration will be to "promote and facilitate the civil defense of the United States in cooperation with the several states."

Mr. Truman instructed Caldwell, a former congressman and governor of Florida from 1945 to 1949, to start work at once. Caldwell responded that he would do so "in a sense of patriotic duty." He takes over the defense reins from J. J. Wadsworth who has been handling them for the National Security Resources Board.

The civil defense bill, prepared by NSRB, was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senators Kefaucer (D.-Tenn.) and McMahon (D.-Conn.). Rep. Durham (D.-N. C.), introduced it in the House Thursday.

Among those closeted with the House committee yesterday were Secretary of Defense Marshall and General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. They were accompanied by an array of generals and admirals.

Rep. Mahon (D.-Tex.), who is conducting the hearings, told newsmen the committee received only an overall report on the tense international situation. The details, he said, will be provided by later witnesses, starting Monday.

Meanwhile, a new draft call, issued yesterday for 50,000 men in February, raised the total since the first call in September to 300,000. And the navy and air force lowered their standards for volunteers to speed expansion toward the 2,800,000 man goal announced by the President.

$8,800 Judgment Against New York State Reinstated

Award Was Made by Court of Claims for Injuries Sustained on Onteora Trail

The Court of Appeals has reinstated a judgment of $8,800 against the State of New York which was awarded by the Court of Claims to Marilyn Dudley and Frederick Cook for injuries which they sustained when they were thrown from a motorcycle at the Walker turn on the Onteora Trail. An action was commenced by the claimants on the theory that the accident was caused by reason of the negligent and defective manner in which the roadway was maintained.

In November 1949 the Appellate Division, Third Department, reversed the judgment in favor of the claimants, Cook and Dudley, and dismissed the claim on the grounds the defect in question was not of sufficient magnitude to predicate liability on the part of the state.

Charles Gaffney, who appeared for the claimants before the Court of Claims, with John E. Egan of counsel, appealed from that decision to the Court of Appeals and that court has now reversed the Appellate Division and reinstated the judgment. In affirming the original judgment, with costs in both courts, the Court of Appeals held that the Court of Claims findings were in accord with the weight of evidence and all judges concurred without opinion. Nathaniel Goldstein, attorney general, appeared for the State of New York.

Subsequent to the accident Marilyn Dudley and Frederick Cook were married and in July of this year Frederick Cook was killed while at work on the New Paltz State Teachers College when a blast set off in construction work showered workers with debris. The award will now be paid to his estate and the widow.

The accident in which the claimants were injured was caused, claimants alleged, by a defect in the pavement where the concrete strips of pavement had been defective for several years and no warning signs had been erected to warn traffic of this condition. The accident happened at night as the claimants were riding over the highway.

Patrolman Gets Ticket

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Patrolman Melvin J. Massie, who has issued many traffic tickets, found out how the errant motorist feels. Massie's car was tagged the other night while parked without lights in front of his home. He posted a $2 bond and forfeited it when he did not appear in traffic court.

Enemy Now Is 25 Miles From City

General Says Situation Grows More Critical for Allies by Hour in Korea

Face Half Million

State of Undeclared War Exists for 200,000 Frontline Troops

Tokyo, Dec. 2 (AP)—Chinese forces surged southward tonight in an enveloping Red tide on the approaches to Pyongyang.

One Red manpower mass was reported within 25 miles of the gravely threatened city.

It is the only capital that ever had been liberated from communism.

Pyongyang was the Red Korean government seat until it was taken over by United Nations forces Oct. 20.

General MacArthur warned that the situation in all North Korea was growing more critical by the hour for the allies. But it is not hopeless, he said.

The Chinese have thrown a half-million well armed troops into Korea for their offensive against the United Nations forces, MacArthur said in an unusual statement answering written questions submitted by war correspondents.

He would not disclose the number of U.N. frontline ground troops in Korea but it is believed to be about 200,000.

MacArthur said: "A state of undeclared war now exists between the Chinese Communists and the United Nations forces."

More Reds Get Ready

The high commander said half of the 500,000 Red Chinese force was arrayed against his troops; the other half already was swarming south inside Korea to join the battle.

The Chinese early winter campaign apparently had two quick objectives:

1. To smash through the Eighth Army's exposed right flank, take Pyongyang and pin the remnants of 110,000 frontline troops in Northwest Korea against the Yellow Sea.

2. To drive eastward to the Sea of Japan and isolate the 10th Corps' scattered columns of three American and two Korean divisions in Northeast Korea.

A spokesman said the Eighth Army, fighting desperately to hold a defense line 30 miles north of Pyongyang, "will not withdraw from any position or from anywhere until forced to do so by enemy action."

If the Eighth Army is forced to retreat, he added, "it will destroy things of military value to the enemy. This military policy will apply if it becomes necessary to evacuate . . . Pyongyang."

Stream Out of City

The city of 300,000 population virtually was in a state of siege. Some allied units and many refugees streamed south out of the city.

Communist leaflets strewn over the streets of Pyongyang said, "you shall be free from the enemy soon." They urged Koreans in the old Red capital to "break down transportation and communications systems, the trains and warehouses . . ."

Korean allied sympathizers warned that a fifth column had swept into the city among the hordes of white-clad refugees.

Independent Civil Defense Agency Set Up by Truman

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Without waiting for Congress to grease the wheels, President Truman has pressed the starter on civil defense machinery geared to go in the event of an attack on the United States.

Just 24 hours after handing the lawmakers a plan to put civil defense under a single powerful administrator responsible only to himself, Mr. Truman yesterday issued an executive order which:

1. Set up a new Federal Civil Defense Administration (FCDA), and—

2. Named former Florida governor, Millard F. Caldwell, Jr., as its $17,500 a year administrator.

The President acted while lawmakers maneuvered for control of the bill he proposed Thursday to create an FCDA and give its administrator far more power than now is available.

Truman's move was interpreted in some informed quarters as an effort to get an independent civil defense agency set up and staffed as a going concern to meet any emergency pending congressional action. There was no immediate congressional comment.

The President said the basic purpose of the new administration will be to "promote and facilitate the civil defense of the United States in cooperation with the several states."

Mr. Truman instructed Caldwell, a former congressman and governor of Florida from 1945 to 1949, to start work at once. Caldwell responded that he would do so "in a sense of patriotic duty." He takes over the defense reins from J. J. Wadsworth who has been handling them for the National Security Resources Board.

The civil defense bill, prepared by NSRB, was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senators Kefaucer (D.-Tenn.) and McMahon (D.-Conn.). Rep. Durham (D.-N. C.), introduced it in the House Thursday.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By CHARLES DICKENS

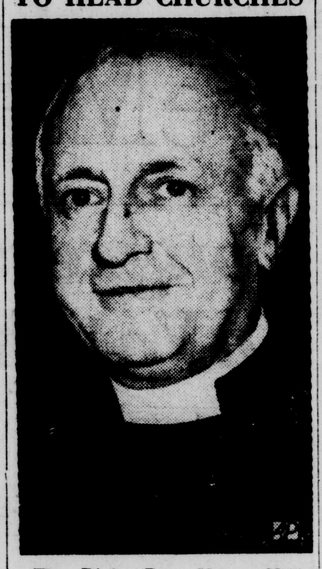
Whisking him away from the Fezziwigs', the Ghost took Scrooge back to the scene of his broken engagement. His fiancee rejected him because another idol had replaced her---a golden one.

And then, Scrooge saw what might have been.

With that, the Ghost of Christmas Past deposited Scrooge in his bed, utterly exhausted, and disappeared.

But it seemed only seconds until Scrooge was awakened by weird sounds from the next room.

TO HEAD CHURCHES



The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill (above), of Greenwich, Conn., was nominated in Cleveland, O., Dec. 1, as first president of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States. His nomination is considered to be a nearly certain prelude to his election by the council's general assembly the same day. Bishop Sherrill is presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Comforter Church Names Elders, Deacons

Election of new elders and deacons took place during the annual congregational dinner and meeting of the Reformed Church of the Comforter earlier this week.

Elders elected were Douglas Kennedy and Robert Brown. Members named as deacons were Philip Maines and David Gibbs.

Following the dinner which was prepared by the Ladies' Aid Society with Mrs. William S. Wood and Mrs. LeRoy Deitz in charge, Frank Elmendorf and Paul Barnum led in group singing.

Dr. Gerard Gnade, executive secretary of the ministers fund of the Reformed Church, was the guest speaker and delivered an inspiring address on the work the Church of Christ is doing both at home and abroad.

He pointed out how Christians here are able to extend their influence all over the world through the church. Later, Dr. Gnade rendered a solo.

Reports included Howard DeWitt, church treasurer; and William S. Wood, financial secretary, who reported on the every-member canvass which was held early in November. He said that there was a substantial increase in pledges over the previous year.

Ducks Had Cancer

Galveston, Tex., Dec. 2 (AP)—The University of Texas Medical School is looking hard for two missing ducks. It's even more interested in finding the person or persons who may have eaten them. The ducks had cancer. Both birds had been infected over a nine-month period with a cancer-producing substance. "If the ducks were eaten," he said, "we want to contact those who ate them both in the interest of science and of saving their lives. We want to keep them under observation for at least two years."

Has Plan on Rubber

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—The government is considering resuming its wartime purchasing of all rubber imports to eliminate the private competition which has sent prices soaring. The supply of rubber for civilians would not be affected by the plan which officials said last night will be presented to the National Security Resources Board for approval next week. Under the plan, the government would buy natural rubber from abroad and resell it to private industry.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By CHARLES DICKENS

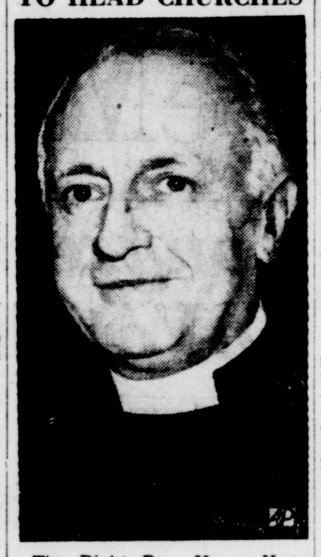
Whisking him away from the Fezziwigs', the Ghost took Scrooge back to the scene of his broken engagement. His fiancee rejected him because another idol had replaced her---a golden one.

And then, Scrooge saw what might have been.

With that, the Ghost of Christmas Past deposited Scrooge in his bed, utterly exhausted, and disappeared.

But it seemed only seconds until Scrooge was awakened by weird sounds from the next room.

TO HEAD CHURCHES



The Right Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill (above), of Greenwich, Conn., was nominated in Cleveland, O., Dec. 1, as first president of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States. His nomination is considered to be a nearly certain prelude to his election by the council's general assembly the same day. Bishop Sherrill is presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Comforter Church Names Elders, Deacons

Election of new elders and deacons took place during the annual congregational dinner and meeting of the Reformed Church of the Comforter earlier this week.

Elders elected were Douglas Kennedy and Robert Brown. Members named as deacons were Philip Maines and David Gibbs.

Following the dinner which was prepared by the Ladies' Aid Society with Mrs. William S. Wood and Mrs. LeRoy Deitz in charge, Frank Elmendorf and Paul Barnum led in group singing.

Dr. Gerard Gnade, executive secretary of the ministers fund of the Reformed Church, was the guest speaker and delivered an inspiring address on the work the Church of Christ is doing both at home and abroad.

He pointed out how Christians here are able to extend their influence all over the world through the church. Later, Dr. Gnade rendered a solo.

Reports included Howard DeWitt, church treasurer; and William S. Wood, financial secretary, who reported on the every-member canvass which was held early in November. He said that there was a substantial increase in pledges over the previous year.

Ducks Had Cancer

Galveston, Tex., Dec. 2 (AP)—The University of Texas Medical School is looking hard for two missing ducks. It's even more interested in finding the person or persons who may have eaten them. The ducks had cancer. Both birds had been infected over a nine-month period with a cancer-producing substance. "If the ducks were eaten," he said, "we want to contact those who ate them both in the interest of science and of saving their lives. We want to keep them under observation for at least two years."

Has Plan on Rubber

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—The government is considering resuming its wartime purchasing of all rubber imports to eliminate the private competition which has sent prices soaring. The supply of rubber for civilians would not be affected by the plan which officials said last night will be presented to the National Security Resources Board for approval next week. Under the plan, the government would buy natural rubber from abroad and resell it to private industry.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Just received following note and interesting items from Mrs. E. M. Henry of 89 Abruyn street: "Am sending enclosed items, thought they may be interesting at this time of year. I have a scrap book of your columns but the scrap book's not large enough, etc." One item called "Five Thousand Years of Toys" by Hendrik Willem Van Loon, as printed in "Woman's Home Companion" of 1937. Reads in part: "Ever since the beginning of time, there have been two sorts of toys; those which children themselves made and those made for them by their elders. The latter survived, for they were made better. The rarest of all relics are toys because children destroy them so quickly."

Toys depict the daily lives of whatever age they are made. They tell more than a whole library of books. Every new invention is immediately reflected in toys. Each war brings new toys of war implements. Toys follow the auto and air age closely. When my father made the window model of the "Skillypot" back around 1921 when the, real one stopped running across the creek. I bought some little toy autos, trucks, etc., to display on the model ferryboat and today they are classed as antiques. Toys of transportation alone would make an interesting school exhibit of historical importance.

Mrs. Henry also sent several pages taken from "Our Wonder World" Vol. IX—pages 329, etc., about Kate Greenaway as a child. Kate was the famous Walt Disney of yesteryear.

In this article of the famous illustrator of children's books and poetess it is written, "There never was a happier child than Kate Greenaway, the daughter of an English engraver. She began walking when she was only eight months old and people used to laugh as she flitted after birds and toddled among flowers. By the time she was four she knew most of the birds and flowers by their proper names. Then came her love of dolls. She not only was given many of various kinds but was able to sew and make them herself. She had a complete English Royal family and knew all about their lives. Because once she learned a difficult composition on the piano called "Gauraca" she received a doll by that name. It was a yard and a quarter long, and as she carried it, the legs trailed on the ground."

"Her father's engraving business did not bring in enough or quickly enough so her mother opened a shop for making children's garments, there Kate found lovely scraps of silks and laces for her dolls. Whenever the occasion arose Mrs. Greenaway used to take her children to the gates of Buckingham Palace to see the little royal children, and Kate often wished she could someday be invited into the palace as a royal guest and come in a gilt carriage, to have the royal gates thrown open for her. Thirty years later it came to pass, when Kate Greenaway had become so famous for her little drawings and verses that she was invited by the Queen herself, and rode in through the famous iron gates, to be adored and admired by the royal family, as she had admired them from afar for many years."

It would be nice to have Kate Greenaway's art and verse revived this Christmas season, don't you think?

HOW TELEPHONE FORCES MET THE STORM

Plans were ready...Repair crews worked from dawn to dark...Operators came voluntarily to the switchboards.

Countless stories have been told of last Saturday's storm—stories of courage, of coincidence and of resourcefulness. We'd like to tell you, briefly, how the telephone organization responded to the emergency.

At the peak of the storm about 160,000 Bell telephones were out of service through the State. Over 2,500 poles were down. More than 1000 toll lines were knocked out by wind and water and falling trees. Without emergency power plants provided by the company, 150 central offices would have been unable to continue giving service.

$1,500,000 In Telephone Damage

All the figures aren't in yet, but it looks as though the cost of putting New York's telephone system back in shape will reach at least a million and a half dollars—making this storm one of the most costly in our history.

Throughout the telephone industry, plans for meeting emergencies of all types are always ready.

While the storm still raged, repair crews quickly gathered at key points to start the job of restoration. On Sunday a total of 9500 men were on the job, often fighting nearly impossible odds to get lines and telephones back in service. The normal Sunday force is about 1000 men. Every available man stayed on the job during the following days, until the clean-up was virtually completed. Where towns were isolated, we sent mobile radio-telephone cars to give emergency out-of-town service.

Telephone operators by the hundreds, realizing the heavy load of emergency calls to be handled, voluntarily left the security of their homes to battle their way to their switchboards. Here are just two examples of their response. One operator, marooned in her home, was carried to high ground in a rowboat and got a taxicab to take her to the office. Another persuaded the men on a fire truck who rescued her from rising waters to drive her to the telephone building.

Men, Money and Materials

By midweek most telephones were back in service, and while much work remains to be done, permanent repairs are well under way. Again, the necessity of having the men, materials and financial strength to meet an emergency promptly has been demonstrated.

During these days of great effort and difficulty, our task would have been far heavier had it not been for the forbearance and cooperation of our customers. To all, we want to say thanks for your help in this storm emergency.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Just received following note and interesting items from Mrs. E. M. Henry of 89 Abruyn street: "Am sending enclosed items, thought they may be interesting at this time of year. I have a scrap book of your columns but the scrap book's not large enough, etc." One item called "Five Thousand Years of Toys" by Hendrik Willem Van Loon, as printed in "Woman's Home Companion" of 1937. Reads in part: "Ever since the beginning of time, there have been two sorts of toys; those which children themselves made and those made for them by their elders. The latter survived, for they were made better. The rarest of all relics are toys because children destroy them so quickly."

Toys depict the daily lives of whatever age they are made. They tell more than a whole library of books. Every new invention is immediately reflected in toys. Each war brings new toys of war implements. Toys follow the auto and air age closely. When my father made the window model of the "Skillypot" back around 1921 when the real one stopped running across the creek. I bought some little toy autos, trucks, etc., to display on the model ferryboat and today they are classed as antiques. Toys of transportation alone would make an interesting school exhibit of historical importance.

Mrs. Henry also sent several pages taken from "Our Wonder World" Vol. IX—pages 329, etc., about Kate Greenaway as a child. Kate was the famous Walt Disney of yesteryear.

In this article of the famous illustrator of children's books and poetess it is written, "There never was a happier child than Kate Greenaway, the daughter of an English engraver. She began walking when she was only eight months old and people used to laugh as she flitted after birds and toddled among flowers. By the time she was four she knew most of the birds and flowers by their proper names. Then came her love of dolls. She not only was given many of various kinds but was able to sew and make them herself. She had a complete English Royal family and knew all about their lives. Because once she learned a difficult composition on the piano called "Gauraca" she received a doll by that name. It was a yard and a quarter long, and as she carried it, the legs trailed on the ground."

"Her father's engraving business did not bring in enough or quickly enough so her mother opened a shop for making children's garments, there Kate found lovely scraps of silks and laces for her dolls. Whenever the occasion arose Mrs. Greenaway used to take her children to the gates of Buckingham Palace to see the little royal children, and Kate often wished she could someday be invited into the palace as a royal guest and come in a gilt carriage, to have the royal gates thrown open for her. Thirty years later it came to pass, when Kate Greenaway had become so famous for her little drawings and verses that she was invited by the Queen herself, and rode in through the famous iron gates, to be adored and admired by the royal family, as she had admired them from afar for many years."

It would be nice to have Kate Greenaway's art and verse revived this Christmas season, don't you think?

INDIAN PROGRESS

The Association on American Indian Affairs has issued a statement objecting strongly to a proposed new policy of the Indian Bureau of the government. The association declares that the policy would bring about "increase rather than decrease of Indian Bureau control over the natural right of the Indian tribes, as self-governing political and social groups, to run their own affairs." It has been supposed that the general trend in relatives between the government and the Indian tribes is and ought to be toward greater Indian freedom of action and less government regulation and paternalism. The association says this is the first major instance in many years of a step toward more rather than less control. The policy giving rise to this protest is one outlining rules for contracts between Indian tribes and attorneys they may employ.

The charge made by the association is bound to cause some Americans to wonder whether the Indian Bureau has yielded to that temptation which is the constant bane of a bureaucratic government, the temptation of a bureau to take steps to assure its own continued life. The association does not suggest this idea, but it says:

"The Indians of the United States have for decades been moving steadily toward their proper place as self-governing, self-sustaining communities within our nation. Their legal rights ultimately depend upon their right to independent and freely selected counsel. The new policy denies them that right."

It might seem that this is a relatively minor domestic matter which could easily become lost in the midst of our multiple problems. But many of the international troubles today revolve around domestic problems of minorities within nations, and the Indians are one of our important minority groups. We should move toward freeing the Indians from paternalism, rather than enmeshing them more deeply in it.

NEW FARMING CLASS

That a nation is no better or more progressive than its farmers is the idea of the new farm program being put forward in Iraq. That country's fertile lands from the earliest times have been under the control of tribal heads and other landlords who often have lived far from the thousands of acres of land which they owned. The present backward state of agricultural life in Iraq is due largely to abuses resulting from this system.

In an effort to form an independent, personally industrious agricultural middle class, the government of this Eastern country is sponsoring what amounts to an agrarian revolution. Plots of government land averaging about sixty acres are being assigned to families who must agree to work the land themselves under government instruction. Irrigation, drainage, machinery and marketing are to be carried out on a community basis for a ten-year trial period.

Such a project may be practical in a small country like Iraq, where supervision would be simpler than in larger Oriental countries. If it proves to be successful, a step will have been taken away from archaic customs and habits. Other nations with similar problems might then be inspired to follow the example.

Much evil has been found to be rooted in the gathering of money; much has also been found to stem from the lack of it.

NO PARKING!

New York City's traffic problems differ from those of other communities only in degree. This gives interest to the finding of the city Department of Traffic that one out of every four cars parking in a forbidden area bore some sort of sticker calculated to give the impression that this car was entitled to park there. It was also found that special doctors' plates could be obtained by a physician for every car he owned, regardless of whether or not it was being used for professional purposes.

Other towns probably would find the same condition on examination. There is no ingenuity to which an unscrupulous would-be parker will not resort in order to get his car into a forbidden spot and have it remain there unmolested. With the increase in cars and the cost of providing parking space, the problem grows from day to day.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

EXPANSION OF POWER

Since the N.R.A. days, the structural governmental problem which has faced the American people has been the constantly expanding power of the agencies of the federal government.

Some Americans accept expanding powers as inevitable, particularly when they bring them checks to which they know, in their hearts, they are not entitled. Others object to expansion, except when it serves their private purposes. For instance, the N.R.A. was a "big business" operation to check the competition of small and newer enterprises. The Supreme Court threw it out on a case involving a little businessman engaged in selling live chickens wholesale.

Nevertheless, it is possible to say, in 1950, that the general consensus of opinion is that the evidence does not justify further expansion of governmental power. The Brannan Plan and Oscar Ewing's socialized medicine were issues in the last election and wherever they were local issues, the people voted against them.

Now in this matter of TV-color, it is not really important what kind of color scheme there is, if it works. Whether TV itself is important is yet to be seen. I hardly ever look at it and I note that my children are wearying of the barrel-scraping television shows. But the beginnings of anything are unsatisfactory and television is no exception.

Also, like so many other new commodities, its advertising is often ridiculous, as perhaps it must be with a new commodity the worth of which is exaggerated. Whereas advertisements advocating parent-child conflicts have been withdrawn from the newspapers, they are being repeated on radio. It is stupid, but nothing to get excited about.

When, however, a government agency goes beyond its legal authority, that is something for excitement and even anger. The F.C.C. is a regulatory body of limited scope, having no authority over the manufacture of devices. This is as it should be, for in our system of life, invention and competition have given to us all our material advantages.

For instance, as I write this with a fountain pen, I cannot help thinking that since man began to put words on paper or cloth or papyrus—choose your vehicle—he put the pen into the ink. Then along came somebody who decided to put the ink into the pen.

It was not a necessary invention. We could all live without it. But it turned out to be a convenience and is now universally used wherever folks bother to write.

Had some government agency been in authority at the time the fountain pen first appeared, it might have objected on the grounds of lack of necessity or on the grounds that their own engineer had produced something different and he must have precedence because he is their engineer.

That did not happen. Instead, all sorts of pens some of them very queer and peculiar, appeared in the market place, and competition determined which would survive.

Congress has never given to any agency of government the authority to restrict the inventiveness of the American mind. Neither the F.C.C. nor the F.T.C. nor any agency has a legal right to say to an American that he cannot experiment, invent, try out or by some other means seek to improve something, create something, build something which in his opinion is sound. Nor are they empowered to say that one thing is good and another bad. The most the Federal Trade Commission, for instance, can say is that something is harmful or is falsely presented to the public after it is placed in use.

The F.C.C., however, did something altogether different. It picked a device and said that this is the one it approved. That was none of its business. Quite apart from the expansion of its functions outside the law, the F.C.C. acted impetuously, for it knew that it was, by its action, making obsolete millions of television sets, which were owned not by great corporations but by private citizens who had paid their money for them or were in the process of paying for them.

If every television network adopted this device, no existent television set would carry black and white or color TV shows without expensive alterations. Furthermore, the F.C.C. knew that millions of dollars were being spent to produce color TV by another method.

Therefore, this expansion of power, without an act of Congress, is not only wrong per se, but impractical. What's the hurry about this? Somebody might even invent something to abolish TV.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DRUG FOR EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION

One of the distressing and embarrasing ailments that afflicts men and women is what is called hyperhidrosis—excessive sweating. Nature intended that we should perspire as perspiring keeps the blood at normal temperature and helps to get rid of wastes from the body. However, to have excessive perspiration, even in cool weather when no physical work is being done, develops an inferiority complex, especially in women.

Excessive sweating in the hands, feet, armpits and other parts is very troublesome but fortunately, by the use of certain drugs and an occasional X-ray treatment, can be controlled to a considerable extent.

Lately, when excessive sweating occurs in certain parts of the body, the surgical operation of cutting the nerves supplying that part has been effective but, unforunately, there then often occurs increased perspiration in other parts.

What may prove to be a simple method of controlling perspiration without the aid of surgical operation is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Drs. Keith S. Grimson, C. Keith Lyons, Wm. T. Watkins and J. Lamar Callaway, Duke University, Durham, N. C., state that among 144 patients under treatment for peptic ulcer or other stomach and intestinal disorders, using the drug banthine, several found dryness of their hands. They then tried the drug on a young woman of 25, who could not hold a telephone or handle a stenographer's pad without wetting them, the perspiration running down from the armpits and dripping from her hands. When examined, her hands were clammy, cold, and glistening with moisture. Forty-five minutes after taking two 50 mg. banthine bromide tablets, hands, feet and armpits became warm and dry. Thereafter she was able to prevent excessive sweating by use of 2 tablets every 4 hours.

As this was only one case, these physicians then treated 3 more women; one aged 22 who as long as she could remember had always had excessive sweating of hands and feet; another, age 30, whose excessive sweating was first noted in her early teens, and another, age 27, who had had excessive sweating for nine years. All three obtained the same excellent results as the first patient.

The above information should be worth much to physician and to patients suffering with excessive perspiration, as it may eliminate the need for atropine and X-ray treatment and surgical operation.

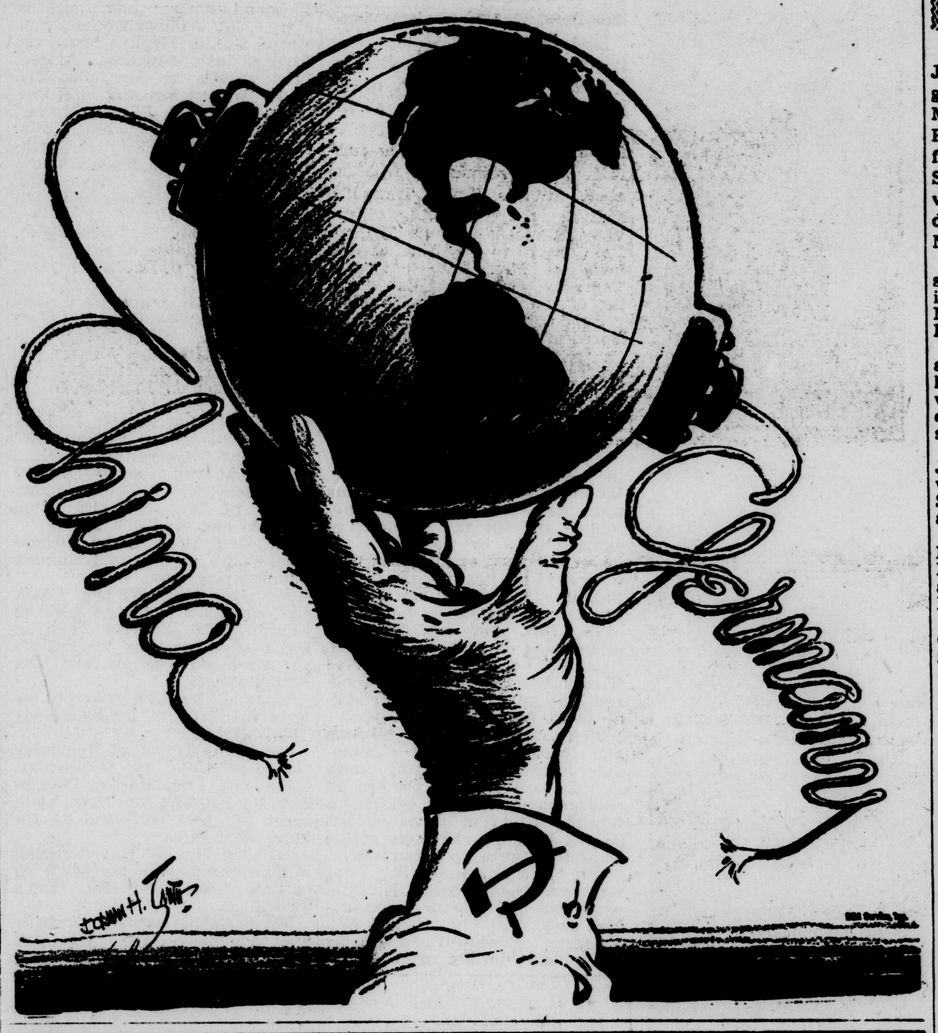
Double Fused



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—In a highly secret conference with the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees, Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned that a third world war is "imminent," if not already in progress.

The Korean conflict might spread to Yugoslavia and possibly other points in Europe and Asia "at any moment," Acheson declared.

Asked if there were still time to avoid another world-wide conflict, the secretary of state replied that it could be avoided only by prompt and concerted action against the Russian-Chinese Communist entente by our friends in the United Nations.

He mentioned trade sanctions against the Chinese Communists as one possible solution.

But Acheson added that we must also get economic aid to Yugoslavia as quickly as possible to stiffen the back of that drouth-hit nation against Russia.

"All I can say now is that the situation is dangerous—very dangerous," Acheson asserted.

Under questioning by the House Committee, Acheson bluntly charged that the Korean crisis is due in large part to General MacArthur's bungling military intelligence. He specifically mentioned that military intelligence officers had estimated that the Chinese Army which invaded Korea would number at the most 60 or 65,000 troops; whereas the Chinese massed almost four times that number in the Korean offensive.

Acheson told the committee that this blunder might have been avoided if we had a strongly centralized and alert intelligence agency in Washington, instead of depending almost entirely on MacArthur's intelligence scouts.

Dewey and Acheson

It's been a carefully hushed-up secret between the State Department and Albany, but last summer, Governor Dewey discussed with Secretary of State Acheson the idea of becoming American ambassador to Great Britain.

Although Governor Dewey's office refuses to discuss the matter, what happened was this. Early in the summer and before Dewey changed his mind about running for re-election, he asked for a meeting with Acheson. He specified that the meeting should be neither in the State Department nor in the Roosevelt Hotel, Dewey's New York city headquarters; so the two met in the home of Roger Straus, president of the American Smelting and Refining Company whom Dewey had planned to make secretary of commerce if elected in 1948.

Dewey, long an admirer of Acheson, explained that he was becoming more and more worried about the bipartisan foreign policy which he felt was rapidly falling to pieces since the illness of Senator Vandenberg. And he said he would like to do something to help.

Dewey and Vandenberg have been quite friendly since 1944, and while the Michigan senator's health was good he was in frequent telephone communication with the New York governor. In fact, it was through Dewey that Vandenbeerg came to know and respect Dewey's foreign counselor, John Foster Dulles, now adviser to the State Department.

Ambassador Dewey

Dewey explained to Acheson, therefore, that with Vandenberg ill, he, Dewey, as titular leader of the Republican party, felt responsibility for foreign policy and that he would like to do his part toward re-establishing the bipartisanship which had now gone to pot.

Acheson expressed his appreciation. And out of their conversation grew the idea that Dewey would become ambassador to the Court of St. James, top diplomatic spot in the world; then, after acquiring experience in London, would return here to steer bipartisan foreign policy back on an even keel.

The secretary of state made no actual promise of the London ambassadorship to Dewey. But he indicated he would talk things over at the White House and let him know.

Later, Dewey decided to run for a third term and the idea went up in smoke. However, the man who helped persuade Dewey to run for governor again, the Chase Bank's Winthrop Aldrich, also knew of Dewey's foreign-policy plan, and out of this came the appointment of Walter Gifford, former head of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, to the post Dewey wanted—an appointment which has had all the politicians puzzled.

What most people don't know is that Acheson, despite the Red label pinned on him by Republican senators, has long been Washington attorney for J. P. Morgan and the various Wall Street interests. He has also known Winthrop Aldrich and the Rockefeller group which dominates the Chase Bank.

Therefore, when Dewey reneged on his budding ambassadorial career, he and his New York banking friends sold Acheson on Walter Gifford instead. That was how Truman happened to appoint a big money-raiser for Dewey to the most coveted of all diplomatic posts.

NOTE—Though Dewey wanted to promote the bipartisan foreign policy for his friend Acheson and though Gifford's appointment was sold to Truman with the understanding he would swing GOP support, it didn't work out that way at all. On the day before election, Dewey spent all day on the television vehemently denouncing his friend Acheson's foreign policy in China. It helped him clinch the election.

Baffled Harry Truman

The Dewey-Gifford maneuvering for the London embassy now explains why President Truman was so baffled when he called in James Bruce, of National Dairy Products, and asked Bruce to relieve him of an earlier commitment for the London embassy.

"A terrible thing has happened, Jim," Mr. Truman told Bruce. "The truth is, I've been outmaneuvered. It's a terrible thing to ask you, but I think I've got to ask you to release me from my commitment."

"You're in charge of foreign policy, Mr. President," replied Bruce. "It's your responsibility, and the most important one you have. If you've found a better man for this job, that's enough for me."

"No, that isn't exactly it" replied the President. "They've handed me someone I don't know. He's a fellow who's president of the telephone company."

"You mean William Harrison?" asked Bruce.

"No, I kind of forget the name," replied Mr. Truman.

"Could it be Sosthenes Behn?" said Bruce, referring to the head of International Telephone and Telegraph.

"No," replied the President.

"Well, is it Walter Gifford?"

"Yes," said Mr. Truman. "That's it."

This is something that's got out of control," concluded the President.

He never explained that Dewey had been considered for the ambassadorship, but that apparently was what was in the back of his mind.

The Bridge That Is Possessed by a Demon!

The Bridge of Manyeun, Yunnan, China, was built over a river bed which remains dry for 9 months of the year. As long as the bridge crosses no water, it remains standing; but the minute the rainy season sets in and the dry river bed fills with water, the bridge collapses. It has done so over 400 times in the last 4 centuries, in spite of the enormous sum of money spent on repairs. The natives claim that the bridge is possessed by a demon.

INDIAN PROGRESS

The Association on American Indian Affairs has issued a statement objecting strongly to a proposed new policy of the Indian Bureau of the government. The association declares that the policy would bring about "increase rather than decrease of Indian Bureau control over the natural right of the Indian tribes, as self-governing political and social groups, to run their own affairs." It has been supposed that the general trend in relatives between the government and the Indian tribes is and ought to be toward greater Indian freedom of action and less government regulation and paternalism. The association says this is the first major instance in many years of a step toward more rather than less control. The policy giving rise to this protest is one outlining rules for contracts between Indian tribes and attorneys they may employ.

The charge made by the association is bound to cause some Americans to wonder whether the Indian Bureau has yielded to that temptation which is the constant bane of a bureaucratic government, the temptation of a bureau to take steps to assure its own continued life. The association does not suggest this idea, but it says:

"The Indians of the United States have for decades been moving steadily toward their proper place as self-governing, self-sustaining communities within our nation. Their legal rights ultimately depend upon their right to independent and freely selected counsel. The new policy denies them that right."

It might seem that this is a relatively minor domestic matter which could easily become lost in the midst of our multiple problems. But many of the international troubles today revolve around domestic problems of minorities within nations, and the Indians are one of our important minority groups. We should move toward freeing the Indians from paternalism, rather than enmeshing them more deeply in it.

NEW FARMING CLASS

That a nation is no better or more progressive than its farmers is the idea of the new farm program being put forward in Iraq. That country's fertile lands from the earliest times have been under the control of tribal heads and other landlords who often have lived far from the thousands of acres of land which they owned. The present backward state of agricultural life in Iraq is due largely to abuses resulting from this system.

In an effort to form an independent, personally industrious agricultural middle class, the government of this Eastern country is sponsoring what amounts to an agrarian revolution. Plots of government land averaging about sixty acres are being assigned to families who must agree to work the land themselves under government instruction. Irrigation, drainage, machinery and marketing are to be carried out on a community basis for a ten-year trial period.

Such a project may be practical in a small country like Iraq, where supervision would be simpler than in larger Oriental countries. If it proves to be successful, a step will have been taken away from archaic customs and habits. Other nations with similar problems might then be inspired to follow the example.

Much evil has been found to be rooted in the gathering of money; much has also been found to stem from the lack of it.

NO PARKING!

New York City's traffic problems differ from those of other communities only in degree. This gives interest to the finding of the city Department of Traffic that one out of every four cars parking in a forbidden area bore some sort of sticker calculated to give the impression that this car was entitled to park there. It was also found that special doctors' plates could be obtained by a physician for every car he owned, regardless of whether or not it was being used for professional purposes.

Other towns probably would find the same condition on examination. There is no ingenuity to which an unscrupulous would-be parker will not resort in order to get his car into a forbidden spot and have it remain there unmolested. With the increase in cars and the cost of providing parking space, the problem grows from day to day.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

EXPANSION OF POWER

Since the N.R.A. days, the structural governmental problem which has faced the American people has been the constantly expanding power of the agencies of the federal government.

Some Americans accept expanding powers as inevitable, particularly when they bring them checks to which they know, in their hearts, they are not entitled. Others object to expansion, except when it serves their private purposes. For instance, the N.R.A. was a "big business" operation to check the competition of small and newer enterprises. The Supreme Court threw it out on a case involving a little businessman engaged in selling live chickens wholesale.

Nevertheless, it is possible to say, in 1950, that the general consensus of opinion is that the evidence does not justify further expansion of governmental power. The Brannan Plan and Oscar Ewing's socialized medicine were issues in the last election and wherever they were local issues, the people voted against them.

Now in this matter of TV-color, it is not really important what kind of color scheme there is, if it works. Whether TV itself is important is yet to be seen. I hardly ever look at it and I note that my children are wearying of the barrel-scraping television shows. But the beginnings of anything are unsatisfactory and television is no exception.

Also, like so many other new commodities, its advertising is often ridiculous, as perhaps it must be with a new commodity the worth of which is exaggerated. Whereas advertisements advocating parent-child conflicts have been withdrawn from the newspapers, they are being repeated on radio. It is stupid, but nothing to get excited about.

When, however, a government agency goes beyond its legal authority, that is something for excitement and even anger. The F.C.C. is a regulatory body of limited scope, having no authority over the manufacture of devices. This is as it should be, for in our system of life, invention and competition have given to us all our material advantages.

For instance, as I write this with a fountain pen, I cannot help thinking that since man began to put words on paper or cloth or papyrus—choose your vehicle—he put the pen into the ink. Then along came somebody who decided to put the ink into the pen.

It was not a necessary invention. We could all live without it. But it turned out to be a convenience and is now universally used wherever folks bother to write.

Had some government agency been in authority at the time the fountain pen first appeared, it might have objected on the grounds of lack of necessity or on the grounds that their own engineer had produced something different and he must have precedence because he is their engineer.

That did not happen. Instead, all sorts of pens some of them very queer and peculiar, appeared in the market place, and competition determined which would survive.

Congress has never given to any agency of government the authority to restrict the inventiveness of the American mind. Neither the F.C.C. nor the F.T.C. nor any agency has a legal right to say to an American that he cannot experiment, invent, try out or by some other means seek to improve something, create something, build something which in his opinion is sound. Nor are they empowered to say that one thing is good and another bad. The most the Federal Trade Commission, for instance, can say is that something is harmful or is falsely presented to the public after it is placed in use.

The F.C.C., however, did something altogether different. It picked a device and said that this is the one it approved. That was none of its business. Quite apart from the expansion of its functions outside the law, the F.C.C. acted impetuously, for it knew that it was, by its action, making obsolete millions of television sets, which were owned not by great corporations but by private citizens who had paid their money for them or were in the process of paying for them.

If every television network adopted this device, no existent television set would carry black and white or color TV shows without expensive alterations. Furthermore, the F.C.C. knew that millions of dollars were being spent to produce color TV by another method.

Therefore, this expansion of power, without an act of Congress, is not only wrong per se, but impractical. What's the hurry about this? Somebody might even invent something to abolish TV.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DRUG FOR EXCESSIVE PERSPIRATION

One of the distressing and embarrasing ailments that afflicts men and women is what is called hyperhidrosis—excessive sweating. Nature intended that we should perspire as perspiring keeps the blood at normal temperature and helps to get rid of wastes from the body. However, to have excessive perspiration, even in cool weather when no physical work is being done, develops an inferiority complex, especially in women.

Excessive sweating in the hands, feet, armpits and other parts is very troublesome but fortunately, by the use of certain drugs and an occasional X-ray treatment, can be controlled to a considerable extent.

Lately, when excessive sweating occurs in certain parts of the body, the surgical operation of cutting the nerves supplying that part has been effective but, unforunately, there then often occurs increased perspiration in other parts.

What may prove to be a simple method of controlling perspiration without the aid of surgical operation is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Drs. Keith S. Grimson, C. Keith Lyons, Wm. T. Watkins and J. Lamar Callaway, Duke University, Durham, N. C., state that among 144 patients under treatment for peptic ulcer or other stomach and intestinal disorders, using the drug banthine, several found dryness of their hands. They then tried the drug on a young woman of 25, who could not hold a telephone or handle a stenographer's pad without wetting them, the perspiration running down from the armpits and dripping from her hands. When examined, her hands were clammy, cold, and glistening with moisture. Forty-five minutes after taking two 50 mg. banthine bromide tablets, hands, feet and armpits became warm and dry. Thereafter she was able to prevent excessive sweating by use of 2 tablets every 4 hours.

As this was only one case, these physicians then treated 3 more women; one aged 22 who as long as she could remember had always had excessive sweating of hands and feet; another, age 30, whose excessive sweating was first noted in her early teens, and another, age 27, who had had excessive sweating for nine years. All three obtained the same excellent results as the first patient.

The above information should be worth much to physician and to patients suffering with excessive perspiration, as it may eliminate the need for atropine and X-ray treatment and surgical operation.

Double Fused

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—In a highly secret conference with the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees, Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned that a third world war is "imminent," if not already in progress.

The Korean conflict might spread to Yugoslavia and possibly other points in Europe and Asia "at any moment," Acheson declared.

Asked if there were still time to avoid another world-wide conflict, the secretary of state replied that it could be avoided only by prompt and concerted action against the Russian-Chinese Communist entente by our friends in the United Nations.

He mentioned trade sanctions against the Chinese Communists as one possible solution.

But Acheson added that we must also get economic aid to Yugoslavia as quickly as possible to stiffen the back of that drouthhit nation against Russia.

"All I can say now is that the situation is dangerous—very dangerous," Acheson asserted.

Under questioning by the House Committee, Acheson bluntly charged that the Korean crisis is due in large part to General MacArthur's bungling military intelligence. He specifically mentioned that military intelligence officers had estimated that the Chinese Army which invaded Korea would number at the most 60 or 65,000 troops; whereas the Chinese massed almost four times that number in the Korean offensive.

Acheson told the committee that this blunder might have been avoided if we had a strongly centralized and alert intelligence agency in Washington, instead of depending almost entirely on MacArthur's intelligence scouts.

Dewey and Acheson

It's been a carefully hushed-up secret between the State Department and Albany, but last summer, Governor Dewey discussed with Secretary of State Acheson the idea of becoming American ambassador to Great Britain.

Although Governor Dewey's office refuses to discuss the matter, what happened was this. Early in the summer and before Dewey changed his mind about running for re-election, he asked for a meeting with Acheson. He specified that the meeting should be neither in the State Department nor in the Roosevelt Hotel, Dewey's New York city headquarters; so the two met in the home of Roger Straus, president of the American Smelting and Refining Company whom Dewey had planned to make secretary of commerce if elected in 1948.

Dewey, long an admirer of Acheson, explained that he was becoming more and more worried about the bipartisan foreign policy which he felt was rapidly falling to pieces since the illness of Senator Vandenberg. And he said he would like to do something to help.

Dewey and Vandenberg have been quite friendly since 1944, and while the Michigan senator's health was good he was in frequent telephone communication with the New York governor. In fact, it was through Dewey that Vandenbeerg came to know and respect Dewey's foreign counselor, John Foster Dulles, now adviser to the State Department.

Ambassador Dewey

Dewey explained to Acheson, therefore, that with Vandenberg ill, he, Dewey, as titular leader of the Republican party, felt responsibility for foreign policy and that he would like to do his part toward re-establishing the bipartisanship which had now gone to pot.

Acheson expressed his appreciation. And out of their conversation grew the idea that Dewey would become ambassador to the Court of St. James, top diplomatic spot in the world; then, after acquiring experience in London, would return here to steer bipartisan foreign policy back on an even keel.

The secretary of state made no actual promise of the London ambassadorship to Dewey. But he indicated he would talk things over at the White House and let him know.

Later, Dewey decided to run for a third term and the idea went up in smoke. However, the man who helped persuade Dewey to run for governor again, the Chase Bank's Winthrop Aldrich, also knew of Dewey's foreign-policy plan, and out of this came the appointment of Walter Gifford, former head of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, to the post Dewey wanted—an appointment which has had all the politicians puzzled.

What most people don't know is that Acheson, despite the Red label pinned on him by Republican senators, has long been Washington attorney for J. P. Morgan and the various Wall Street interests. He has also known Winthrop Aldrich and the Rockefeller group which dominates the Chase Bank.

Therefore, when Dewey reneged on his budding ambassadorial career, he and his New York banking friends sold Acheson on Walter Gifford instead. That was how Truman happened to appoint a big money-raiser for Dewey to the most coveted of all diplomatic posts.

NOTE—Though Dewey wanted to promote the bipartisan foreign policy for his friend Acheson and though Gifford's appointment was sold to Truman with the understanding he would swing GOP support, it didn't work out that way at all. On the day before election, Dewey spent all day on the television vehemently denouncing his friend Acheson's foreign policy in China. It helped him clinch the election.

Baffled Harry Truman

The Dewey-Gifford maneuvering for the London embassy now explains why President Truman was so baffled when he called in James Bruce, of National Dairy Products, and asked Bruce to relieve him of an earlier commitment for the London embassy.

"A terrible thing has happened, Jim," Mr. Truman told Bruce. "The truth is, I've been outmaneuvered. It's a terrible thing to ask you, but I think I've got to ask you to release me from my commitment."

"You're in charge of foreign policy, Mr. President," replied Bruce. "It's your responsibility, and the most important one you have. If you've found a better man for this job, that's enough for me."

"No, that isn't exactly it" replied the President. "They've handed me someone I don't know. He's a fellow who's president of the telephone company."

"You mean William Harrison?" asked Bruce.

"No, I kind of forget the name," replied Mr. Truman.

"Could it be Sosthenes Behn?" said Bruce, referring to the head of International Telephone and Telegraph.

"No," replied the President.

"Well, is it Walter Gifford?"

"Yes," said Mr. Truman. "That's it."

This is something that's got out of control," concluded the President.

He never explained that Dewey had been considered for the ambassadorship, but that apparently was what was in the back of his mind.

The Bridge That Is Possessed by a Demon!

The Bridge of Manyeun, Yunnan, China, was built over a river bed which remains dry for 9 months of the year. As long as the bridge crosses no water, it remains standing; but the minute the rainy season sets in and the dry river bed fills with water, the bridge collapses. It has done so over 400 times in the last 4 centuries, in spite of the enormous sum of money spent on repairs. The natives claim that the bridge is possessed by a demon.

Wise Purchases Vital in Remodeling Kitchen

The housewife who is planning to "do over" her kitchen on a limited budget should remember that if she plans wisely and buys carefully, all the efficiency and practically all of the beauty obtainable in the most expensive installations are hers.

Modern basic appliances, refrigerator, sink, and range are available at surprisingly low cost if the housewife is willing to forego a few "deluxe" features.

Efficient design and sound, sturdy construction are the more important considerations.

Cabinets and counters are available in unpainted wood in many department stores and lumber yards and, with a little ingenuity and a little paint, can be made to look as smart as porcelain-finished appliances.

Remarkable advances have been made in the finish, design, and layout of steel cabinets. The convenience of the design of new steel cabinets is apparent in the arrangement of well-equipped drawers and storage spaces in both base and wall cabinets.

Storing Paint Brushes

A good way to store paint brushes is to place them in a covered container of linseed oil.

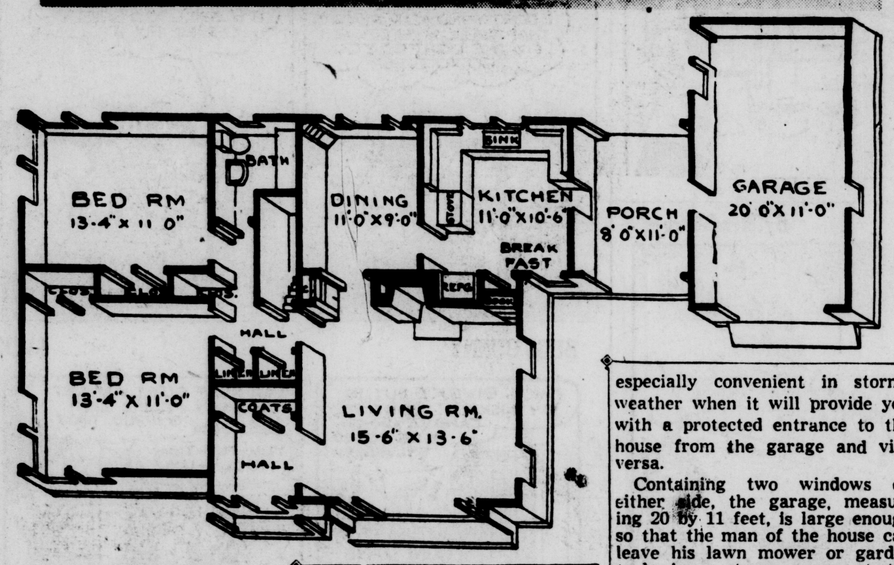
THE REHOBOTH



An Ideal 'Small Family' House

Rooms	Five
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Seven
Cubage - House	20,300
Garage	3,700
Dimensions	36' x 26'

Combining an attractive exterior with a comfortably planned livable interior, the Rehoboth will prove especially popular with small families.

Spacious Closets

Spacious linen and clothes closets are included in this charming house in answer to widespread current demand for plenty of storage space. Important in all modern homes, ample closet area is more vital than ever in homes that lack attic storage space.

You'll like the way the bedrooms in the Rehoboth are set apart from the rest of the house by the two hallways and bath. The abundance of windows, with their guarantee of plentiful light and ventilation; the large living room; the proximity of the kitchen and dining room.

Measuring 40 by 26 feet, the house has overall dimensions of 60 feet and a cubage of 19,000 feet. If you're planning to build on a budget you could easily add the attached porch and garage at some later date. The living room fireplace is another non-essential feature that could be easily omitted for reasons of economy.

Just a glance at the accompanying illustration will show you that clapboards make a handsome exterior for this house. If you prefer an all wood, stone or brick exterior you will find these finishes also blend harmoniously with the architecture.

Set the house somewhat back from the street to show off to best advantage its simple lines and low-slung architecture.

After opening the front door to the Rehoboth you step into a square-shaped hallway. The extra-large clothes closet, at the further end of the hall not only makes a convenient spot in which to hang visitors' wraps but it also serves as a storage place for the family's stormy weather apparel.

Through the archway at the right you enter the spacious living room which is 15 feet 6 inches by 13 feet 6 inches. The abundance of windows in this room makes it appear even larger than its actual measurements.

Flanked by two smaller windows, the large window in the front wall provides an excellent view of the front yard and the surrounding countryside. The two side windows will enable you to enjoy a view from this side of the house at the same time as they bring light and sunshine into this section of the living room.

If you want to have a fireplace in your home, the living room makes an excellent location for it and in this plan the architects suggests placing it in the back wall that divides the living room from the dining room. A built-in bookcase in the corner where the back wall joins the side outside wall would help to give this section of the room a cozy, friendly appearance and perhaps set it apart from the rest of the living room as a spot for unhurried reading and quiet relaxation.

At the left of the doorway to the 11 by 9-foot dining room is a built-in cabinet in which you can keep your glassware or china ware. In the further corner of the dining room itself is another cabinet which also can be used for china, glassware or special serving pieces.

A door at the right leads directly into the well-planned kitchen. The stove is located at the left of this doorway with the working counters, complete with cabinets above and below, arranged in a U-shaped pattern extending to the doorway located in the opposite wall and leading to the adjoining porch.

Preparing meals in the 11 by 10 foot 6 inch kitchen really would be a joy, because everything you need is so near at hand. With the refrigerator placed against the wall separating the kitchen from the living room, and just about directly opposite the stove, you'll save many precious steps both in the preparation of your family's meals and in cleaning up afterwards.

Directly underneath the double windows in the back wall makes an excellent location for the sink. Not only do these windows bring you extra light and sunshine while you're performing your daily household chores, but they also enable you to keep a watchful eye on the youngsters playing in the back yard.

Attached Porch

The attached porch, reached through a door from the kitchen as well as from the garage, is 8 by 11 feet in dimensions. Whether you prefer to leave it as an open porch or to glass or screen it in is entirely up to you. However, you will find this porch especially convenient in stormy weather when it will provide you with a protected entrance to the house from the garage and vice versa.

Containing two windows on either side, the garage, measuring 20 by 11 feet, is large enough so that the man of the house can leave his lawn mower or garden tools in a storage area at the rear. The doorway to the yard is in the side wall.

In the central hall area, which forms the dividing area between the bedrooms and the rest of the house, there are two spacious linen closets as well as a large clothes closet. The entrance to the cellar also opens off this hallway and the modern bath, a combination tub and shower, is located at the end of the hall, between the rear bedroom and the dining room.

Both bedrooms measure 13 feet 4 inches by 11 feet and contain four windows. Each bedroom also has an extra large-sized clothes closet.

Plans Available

(Complete plans and specifications for the Rheoboth, or any other home in this series, are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a 3-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply).

Weatherstrip French Door With Brass Sill

Although French doors are attractive and desirable, home owners sometimes find it difficult to weatherstrip them.

When French doors are in place and moisture penetration occurs at the sill, the doors may be made reasonably watertight and airtight through the use of a four-inch brass saddle or sill with an interlocking metal strip on the bottom of the doors.

Baseboard Is Used for Heat

"More progress has been made in heating in the last few years than in any other division of the building industry."

So said Harry J. Durbin, prominent Detroit builder, in opening a clinic discussion of new developments in house heating at the convention of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago.

Problems related to various types of radiant heating systems were discussed by men familiar with research, installation, and manufacturing.

It was explained that the advantages of radiant heating may be obtained with four methods of heat distribution, namely baseboards, radiators, panels, and convectors.

Much of the emphasis in the discussion was on the importance of thorough insulation of the perimeter of the house in panel heating installations with pipe coils in the floor. Lack of insulation under the panel on the perimeter will result in excessive fuel consumption, it was pointed out.

The baseboard panel was described as the newest development in radiant heating. Reference was made to the study of the heating effects of baseboards at the University of Illinois, where it was found that the low-level distribution of heat produces superior comfort conditions.

The keen interest of builders in heating by means of baseboard panels was reflected in the questions asked after the formal talks.

Know Lumber To Save Money

If you would save money on any kind of new construction or modernization, be sure you know about the different grades of lumber. Lumber is graded according to quality and each grade carries a different price, depending upon the number of blemishes, such as knots, which the classification permits.

Many people use better—and therefore more expensive—lumber than is really necessary because they do not realize that tight knots are not a disadvantage for many construction purposes.

Outside material which is to be painted may contain knots and produce a satisfactory result at less cost. There is one point in connection with the use of the lower grades of lumber which it is well to remember. Knots contain resin and pitch and if covered directly with ordinary oil paint, this resin and pitch will eventually "burn" through.

To eliminate burning and to provide the best paint coverage for knots, give each knot a preliminary coat of shellac before you start to paint. This will seal in the resins and pitch and you will never see the knot again.

Folding Attic Ladder

In many smaller homes of today, the occupant finds that there is no storage space available, except in the attic. To use the attic space effectively it is necessary to have some means of access which can be readily available and yet not detract from the appearance of the house. This problem is solved by means of a new folding ladder or stairway which is counterbalanced to lower and raise easily and fits out of sight into the attic by means of a gentle push from below.

It's Tricky to Paint Stairs While in Use

When stairs must be kept in use while being refinished, one side of the steps can be painted first, and the walking can be done on the unpainted side until the painted side is dry. Then the unpainted half of the stairs can be refinished, and the walking done on the new dry finish on the other side until the entire area of the stairs is dry.

This is an awkward procedure which will require a good deal of care and presence of mind to avoid walking on the wet side of the stairs, and is suggested only for emergency purposes.

Modern floor finishes dry so quickly that it is relatively seldom that the half-and-half painting procedure should be required. Another emergency procedure would be to refinish every other stair and then step two stairs at a time on the dry ones, but for many people this would be too acrobatic.

Wise Purchases Vital in Remodeling Kitchen

The housewife who is planning to "do over" her kitchen on a limited budget should remember that if she plans wisely and buys carefully, all the efficiency and practically all of the beauty obtainable in the most expensive installations are hers.

Modern basic appliances, refrigerator, sink, and range are available at surprisingly low cost if the housewife is willing to forego a few "deluxe" features.

Efficient design and sound, sturdy construction are the more important considerations.

Cabinets and counters are available in unpainted wood in many department stores and lumber yards and, with a little ingenuity and a little paint, can be made to look as smart as porcelain-finished appliances.

Remarkable advances have been made in the finish, design, and layout of steel cabinets. The convenience of the design of new steel cabinets is apparent in the arrangement of well-equipped drawers and storage spaces in both base and wall cabinets.

Storing Paint Brushes

A good way to store paint brushes is to place them in a covered container of linseed oil.

BOND AND CAPITAL NOTE ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., ADOPTED NOVEMBER 28, 1950, AUTHORIZING THE CONSTRUCTION OF AN ADDITION TO THE SEWER SYSTEM OF THE CITY, APPROPRIATING $30,000 THEREFOR, INCLUDING THE APPROPRIATION OF $2,092.11 AS A PORTION OF THE DOWN PAYMENT, AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $907.89 CAPITAL NOTES TO MEET THE PORTION OF THE DOWN PAYMENT NOT PROVIDED BY BUDGETARY APPROPRIATION AND THE ISSUANCE OF $27,000 SERIAL BONDS, OF THE CITY, TO FINANCE THE REMAINDER OF THE APPROPRIATION.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, IN THE COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK, CONVENED IN ADJOURNED REGULAR SESSION, HEREBY ORDAINS (by the favorable vote of not less than two-thirds of all the members of said Council) AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. Pursuant to a recommendation of the Board of Public Works of the City, and in order to prevent the overflow of the sanitary sewers in the vicinity of Washington Avenue and Elizabeth Street, the City sanitary sewer system is hereby authorized to be improved, by the boring of a shaft approximately twelve inches in diameter to be connected to the sanitary sewer system in the above-mentioned area, to be honed to the New York City constructed sanitary sewer which is part of the City of Kingston system and located approximately sixty feet below the surface at the point above stated, subject to the approval of plans and specifications by the Department of Public Health. The said work in addition to the boring of the shaft, shall include construction of the necessary manholes and connections, and the construction of a sluiceway at the lower end of the shaft. The estimate of the maximum cost of said object or purpose, including preliminary costs and costs incidental thereto, is $30,000 and the said amount is hereby appropriated therefor to the Department of Public Works. The plan of financing includes the sum of $2,092.11 from budgetary appropriation and the issuance of capital notes in the amount of $907.89 to provide at least the 10% down payment required by law for the current year and the issuance of serial bonds in the amount of $27,000 to finance the remainder of the appropriation and the levy of taxes upon all the taxable real property in the City in amounts sufficient to provide for the payment of the principal of and interest on the said notes and bonds.

Sec. 2. Capital notes of the City in the principal amount of $907.89 and serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $27,000 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, constituting Chapter 33-a of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York, as amended.

Sec. 3. The following additional matters are hereby determined and stated:

(a) The period of probable usefulness of the specific object or purpose for which the bonds authorized by this ordinance are to be issued, within the limitations of $11.00 a. 4. of said Local Finance Law, is thirty (30) years.

(b) Current funds are required to be provided by said Law as a down payment prior to the issuance of the bonds hereby authorized or of any bond anticipation notes in anticipation of the sale of such bonds, and such current funds have already been provided in the amount of $2,092.11 by the appropriation in the budget for the fiscal year 1950 under the caption "10% of Capital Improvements" and the balance will be provided by the issuance of the capital notes hereby authorized. The City Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to withdraw the said sum of $2,092.11 from said budget appropriation and to set aside the proceeds of the sale of said capital notes and to apply said budget appropriation and the proceeds of the said capital notes to the improvements described in Section 1 hereof.

(c) No part of the cost of the improvements authorized by this ordinance has been or shall be specially assessed on property specially benefited thereby.

Sec. 4. Each of the capital notes and each of the serial bonds authorized by this ordinance or any bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of the sale of such bonds shall contain the recital of validity prescribed by §52.00 of said Local Finance Law and said capital notes and said serial bonds and any bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall be general obligations of the City of Kingston, payable as to both principal and interest by general tax upon all the taxable real property within the City without limitation as to rate or amount. The faith and credit of the City of Kingston are hereby irrevocably pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on said notes and said bonds and provision shall be made annually in the budgets of the City by appropriation for (a) the amortization and redemption of the notes and bonds to mature in each year and (b) the payment of interest to be due and payable in each year.

Sec. 5. Subject to the provisions of this ordinance and pursuant to §30.00 relative to the authorization of the issuance of bond anticipation notes and of §50.00 and §§56.00 to 60.00 of said Local Finance Law, the powers and duties of the Common Council relative to authorizing bond anticipation notes and prescribing the terms, form and contents and as to the sale and issuance of the serial bonds authorized by this ordinance and of any bond anticipation notes authorized and issued in anticipation of said bonds, are hereby delegated to the City Treasurer as the chief fiscal officer of the City.

Sec. 6. The validity of the notes and bonds authorized by this ordinance, and of any bond anticipation notes issued in anticipation of said bonds, may be contested only if:

(a) Such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which the City is not authorized to expend money, or

(b) the provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of the publication of such ordinance are not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(c) such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall be published at least twice in the "Kingston Daily Freeman" and the "Ulster County News and Kingston Leader," together with a notice prescribed by §81.00 of the Local Finance Law, appended by the City Clerk, (which newspapers are allied to and support the two political parties which cast the greater number of votes at the preceding general election and are the official newspapers of the City), and shall take effect immediately after such publication.

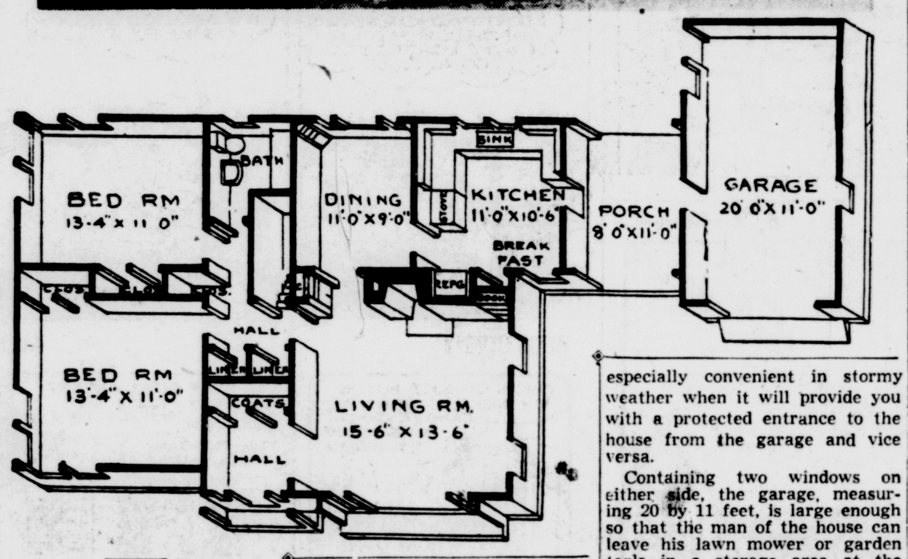
THE REHOBOTH



An Ideal 'Small Family' House

Rooms	Five
Bedrooms	Two
Closets	Seven
Cubage - House	20,300
Garage	3,700
Dimensions	36' x 26'

Combining an attractive exterior with a comfortably planned livable interior, the Rehoboth will prove especially popular with small families.

Spacious Closets

Spacious linen and clothes closets are included in this charming house in answer to widespread current demand for plenty of storage space. Important in all modern homes, ample closet area is more vital than ever in homes that lack attic storage space.

You'll like the way the bedrooms in the Rehoboth are set apart from the rest of the house by the two hallways and bath. The abundance of windows, with their guarantee of plentiful light and ventilation; the large living room; the proximity of the kitchen and dining room.

Measuring 40 by 26 feet, the house has overall dimensions of 60 feet and a cubage of 19,000 feet. If you're planning to build on a budget you could easily add the attached porch and garage at some later date. The living room fireplace is another non-essential feature that could be easily omitted for reasons of economy.

Just a glance at the accompanying illustration will show you that clapboards make a handsome exterior for this house. If you prefer an all wood, stone or brick exterior you will find these finishes also blend harmoniously with the architecture.

Set the house somewhat back from the street to show off to best advantage its simple lines and low-slung architecture.

After opening the front door to the Rehoboth you step into a square-shaped hallway. The extra-large clothes closet, at the further end of the hall not only makes a convenient spot in which to hang visitors' wraps but it also serves as a storage place for the family's stormy weather apparel.

Through the archway at the right you enter the spacious living room which is 15 feet 6 inches by 13 feet 6 inches. The abundance of windows in this room makes it appear even larger than its actual measurements.

Flanked by two smaller windows, the large window in the front wall provides an excellent view of the front yard and the surrounding countryside. The two side windows will enable you to enjoy a view from this side of the house at the same time as they bring light and sunshine into this section of the living room.

If you want to have a fireplace in your home, the living room makes an excellent location for it and in this plan the architects suggests placing it in the back wall that divides the living room from the dining room. A built-in bookcase in the corner where the back wall joins the side outside wall would help to give this section of the room a cozy, friendly appearance and perhaps set it apart from the rest of the living room as a spot for unhurried reading and quiet relaxation.

At the left of the doorway to the 11 by 9-foot dining room is a built-in cabinet in which you can keep your glassware or china ware. In the further corner of the dining room itself is another cabinet which also can be used for china, glassware or special serving pieces.

A door at the right leads directly into the well-planned kitchen. The stove is located at the left of this doorway with the working counters, complete with cabinets above and below, arranged in a U-shaped pattern extending to the doorway located in the opposite wall and leading to the adjoining porch.

Preparing meals in the 11 by 10 foot 6 inch kitchen really would be a joy, because everything you need is so near at hand. With the refrigerator placed against the wall separating the kitchen from the living room, and just about directly opposite the stove, you'll save many precious steps both in the preparation of your family's meals and in cleaning up afterwards.

Directly underneath the double windows in the back wall makes an excellent location for the sink. Not only do these windows bring you extra light and sunshine while you're performing your daily household chores, but they also enable you to keep a watchful eye on the youngsters playing in the back yard.

Attached Porch

The attached porch, reached through a door from the kitchen as well as from the garage, is 8 by 11 feet in dimensions. Whether you prefer to leave it as an open porch or to glass or screen it in is entirely up to you. However, you will find this porch especially convenient in stormy weather when it will provide you with a protected entrance to the house from the garage and vice versa.

Containing two windows on either side, the garage, measuring 20 by 11 feet, is large enough so that the man of the house can leave his lawn mower or garden tools in a storage area at the rear. The doorway to the yard is in the side wall.

In the central hall area, which forms the dividing area between the bedrooms and the rest of the house, there are two spacious linen closets as well as a large clothes closet. The entrance to the cellar also opens off this hallway and the modern bath, a combination tub and shower, is located at the end of the hall, between the rear bedroom and the dining room.

Both bedrooms measure 13 feet 4 inches by 11 feet and contain four windows. Each bedroom also has an extra large-sized clothes closet.

Plans Available

(Complete plans and specifications for the Rheoboth, or any other home in this series, are available at moderate cost. To ascertain the exact price of these documents write to the Home Building Editor, Dept. 24, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Kingston, N. Y., and enclose a self-addressed envelope bearing a 3-cent stamp. At least one week should be allowed for a reply).

Weatherstrip French Door With Brass Sill

Although French doors are attractive and desirable, home owners sometimes find it difficult to weatherstrip them.

When French doors are in place and moisture penetration occurs at the sill, the doors may be made reasonably watertight and airtight through the use of a four-inch brass saddle or sill with an interlocking metal strip on the bottom of the doors.

Baseboard Is Used for Heat

"More progress has been made in heating in the last few years than in any other division of the building industry."

So said Harry J. Durbin, prominent Detroit builder, in opening a clinic discussion of new developments in house heating at the convention of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago.

Problems related to various types of radiant heating systems were discussed by men familiar with research, installation, and manufacturing.

It was explained that the advantages of radiant heating may be obtained with four methods of heat distribution, namely baseboards, radiators, panels, and convectors.

Much of the emphasis in the discussion was on the importance of thorough insulation of the perimeter of the house in panel heating installations with pipe coils in the floor. Lack of insulation under the panel on the perimeter will result in excessive fuel consumption, it was pointed out.

The baseboard panel was described as the newest development in radiant heating. Reference was made to the study of the heating effects of baseboards at the University of Illinois, where it was found that the low-level distribution of heat produces superior comfort conditions.

The keen interest of builders in heating by means of baseboard panels was reflected in the questions asked after the formal talks.

Know Lumber To Save Money

If you would save money on any kind of new construction or modernization, be sure you know about the different grades of lumber. Lumber is graded according to quality and each grade carries a different price, depending upon the number of blemishes, such as knots, which the classification permits.

Many people use better—and therefore more expensive—lumber than is really necessary because they do not realize that tight knots are not a disadvantage for many construction purposes.

Outside material which is to be painted may contain knots and produce a satisfactory result at less cost. There is one point in connection with the use of the lower grades of lumber which it is well to remember. Knots contain resin and pitch and if covered directly with ordinary oil paint, this resin and pitch will eventually "burn" through.

To eliminate burning and to provide the best paint coverage for knots, give each knot a preliminary coat of shellac before you start to paint. This will seal in the resins and pitch and you will never see the knot again.

Folding Attic Ladder

In many smaller homes of today, the occupant finds that there is no storage space available, except in the attic. To use the attic space effectively it is necessary to have some means of access which can be readily available and yet not detract from the appearance of the house. This problem is solved by means of a new folding ladder or stairway which is counterbalanced to lower and raise easily and fits out of sight into the attic by means of a gentle push from below.

It's Tricky to Paint Stairs While in Use

When stairs must be kept in use while being refinished, one side of the steps can be painted first, and the walking can be done on the unpainted side until the painted side is dry. Then the unpainted half of the stairs can be refinished, and the walking done on the new dry finish on the other side until the entire area of the stairs is dry.

This is an awkward procedure which will require a good deal of care and presence of mind to avoid walking on the wet side of the stairs, and is suggested only for emergency purposes.

Modern floor finishes dry so quickly that it is relatively seldom that the half-and-half painting procedure should be required. Another emergency procedure would be to refinish every other stair and then step two stairs at a time on the dry ones, but for many people this would be too acrobatic.

The wire screening can be held in place with a brick cemented over it at each corner of the chimney. If left in place the year around, the screen will prevent sparks from flying out with danger of setting fire to the roof.

He had just been acquitted, and turning to his counsel, he said, gratefully:

Man — Thanks, awfully, Old Man. What on earth should I have done without you?

Attorney—Oh, about five years.

You can always be critical, but only now and then can you be correct.

Director—Have you had any stage experience?

New Actor—Well, my leg was in a cast once.

You should not question your wife's judgment. Look whom she married.

Walker—Does your wife drive a car?

Rider—Only when I am at the wheel.

Junior—On what grounds does your father object to me?

Helen—On any grounds within a mile of the house.

Why is it that parades are always slow in getting started?

Wife—Oh, George, dear. Is there anything new in the paper today?

Hubby—No, Helen. Just the same old things . . . only happening to different people.

KAA Membership Drive Speeded To Insure 'Little League' Success

President Apeals For Quick Returns

The success of the Kingston Athletic Association's current membership campaign will go a long way in determining the scope of the K.A.A.'s "Little League" baseball program in 1951, President Bob Umpleby announced today.

"Our membership must net us more than a thousand dollars in order to insure success of the Little League," the silver-thatched K.A.A. president said.

Umpleby pointed out that the association's annual all-star junior baseball promotion against the Brooklyn-Against-The-World club was something of a flop and the burden of raising sufficient money to insure the Little League setup rests with the membership sale.

The K.A.A. recruits dollar members and has a special five dollar booster membership.

Several hundred of both types of memberships were mailed to prospective members several days ago and the response has been slow.

Six-Team League

(The KAA president revealed that the organization has spent more than $5,000 in the past four years in the summer baseball program and in trophies, ribbons and dinners for K.H.S. and grade school champions).

"The Little League will be a tremendous boon for junior baseball for youngsters in the 9 to 13-year bracket," Umpleby added. "We will have a six-team league, completely outfitted and playing a regular schedule under the jurisdiction of the Little League Association of America."

"The Little League," he continued, "is a nationwide movement and has the backing of the major leagues. We think this type of baseball will do more for the kids of the city than the old style 'instruction program' the K.A.A. sponsored in previous years. It will be a terrific thrill for a youngster to be in uniform with a regularly organized team playing several games a week."

Future of Baseball

Umpleby was thinking out loud when he hinted that the Little League and a reduced City Baseball League might be the only source of live baseball for city fans in 1951.

"Nobody knows what's going to happen to baseball next year. At the rate the draft is grabbing young men, organized ball will be hurt and there is grave doubt that the City League can operate at its former level. The Little League may be the answer to our baseball needs."

The six teams in the Little League will be sponsored by local organizations and individuals, with the Kingston Athletic Association responsible for the supervision and conduct of the league.

Under the national setup, the junior baseball movement sponsors regional, sectional, state and national tournaments, with the finals scheduled in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. They are played under World Series conditions and in an atmosphere of great excitement and the series is highly publicized by press, radio and movies.

"We invite all sports minded citizens of Kingston and Ulster county to assist us in this promotion," Umpleby said. "We have tried to reach as many people as possible in our membership campaign and will need all the help we can get in our first year."

The K.A.A. president also announced that the annual Hot Stove League sports dinner would be held during the last week in January or the first week in February.

Famechon, Gatica Stir Garden Crowd

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Ray Famechon of France and Jose Gatica of Buenos Aires look like a tonic for the ailing fight game if anything can help.

Famechon, a flop against Willie Pep last March, turned in a sparkling show against Archie Devino of Newark, N. J., last night in the Madison Square Garden main go. The Frenchman stopped eager young Archie in 2:43 of the seventh round.

Gatica, a stocky little busybody, made a hit with the small crowd of 5,170 which paid only $16,099 by scoring a fourth round technical knockout over the veteran Terry Young.

The International Boxing Club, impressed by both Famechon and Gatica, started making plans to bring both back in the near future.

Al Weill, IBC matchmaker, was trying to arrange a bout with Artie Aragon for Gatica. This might go into the Dec. 15 spot if Paddy Young does not feel up to his scheduled date with Kid Gavilan.

If Weill cannot make Aragon-Gatica he is thinking of a Gatica-Famechon match. There is one catch there. Gatica, who weighed 138¾ last night must come in at 135 or less. Famechon, European featherweight champ, was only 127¾ against Devino.

Famechon had a ready target in Devino, a willing youngster who was in over his head. The Frenchman put on a brilliant show with his talented left. Sharp shooting through Devino's defense, he scored almost at will. Devino was on the deck for nine in the seventh. He just beat the 10-count but referee Petey Scalzo stopped it.

The handful of customers went for Gatica, who bounced from his corner wearing high-laced white shoes like an acrobat. He swarmed over Terry and dropped him for a one-count in the first. It was no contest with Gatica in charge all the way until Referee Frank Fullman stopped it at 1:12 of the fourth.

Shotton Soured By His Release

Bartow, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Burt Shotton says he's through with baseball except possibly for "a few odd jobs" because of the way the Brooklyn Dodgers replaced him with Chuck Dressen this week.

Back at his home here after a hunting trip, Shotton said Walter O'Malley, Brooklyn president, informed him of Dressen's appointment only a few hours before it was made public.

"The deal I got this time made me a little sour," said the veteran manager, who guided Brooklyn to the National League championship in 1949 and was nosed out by Philadelphia only in the final game of the 1950 campaign.

Shotton said he has no immediate plans and has no interest in returning to the game in any major capacity.

He indicated he would tell his whole story of the deal when the game's top men meet in St. Petersburg next week for the annual minor and major league meetings.

Liberty, Poughkeepsie and NFA Top Threats in DUSO Basketball

Three Will Be Tough For Kingston Hopes

The word around the DUSO basketball conference is that "Liberty High is loaded," Newburgh Academy has a "pretty fair" outlook and Sam Kalloch's Poughkeepsie High School Blues will be tough.

Where does that leave Coach G. Warren Kias and the normally rugged K.H.S. Maroons?

Specifically, the relative strength of the Poughkeepsie and Maroon squads will be determined on opening night—Friday, Dec. 8, at the municipal auditorium—when the ancient rivals clash headon.

If the Maroon hopes to be a serious contender, it would behoove them to win that opener. That would assure them of an even break against one of the principal contenders. Few DUSO quintets expect to beat the Blues in the Bridge City bandbox that is palmed off as a basketball court.

Masterson Confident

Although lacking six members of last year's DUSO champions—first in the history of the school—Coach George "Lanky" Masterson of Newburgh Free Academy is not pessimistic about his club's chances in the 1950-51 flag race.

Last year Newburgh compiled a record of 21 victories and two defeats. Monticello High contrived to beat them in DUSO play and the second setback was an overwhelming loss to Mont Pleasant High in the intersectional finals.

Missing from this powerful aggregation are Dick Tyler, an all-time N.F.A. cage great who is at North Carolina State; Frank Quimby, John Bowman and John Lodato, all regulars; plus reserves Tom Williams and Bob O'Donovan.

The lone starter back in harness is Matt Chrystal. He is joined by reserves Richie Spreer, who figures to be a big scorer; Jack Pelin, Bob Maher and Ed Wrightmeyer.

Sees Tight Race

Masterson looks for a tight scramble for the DUSO honors since 10 teams are competing this season. He tabs Kingston as the team to beat and has high respect for Poughkeepsie and Liberty. Other entries in the revised DUSO setup are Port Jervis, Middletown, Ellenville, Fallsburg, Beacon and Monticello.

"Poughkeepsie will be tough especially at its small home court," Masterson pointed out. "Liberty, I understand, may be the surprise team in the league. And with this conference style schedule, anything can happen."

L. Straley Cracks 276

Lou Straley rolled a sparkling 276 for new high single record in the Bowlodrome Major Thursday night. The big blast came after opening scores of 222 and 174. The aggregate of 672 also led the league and represented the highest triple in Straley's career.

Several other keglers hit high triples and singles. Clifton Quick posted 226-225-632; Gene Vogel 224-257; Tommy Amato 204-223-617; John Schatzel 224-614; Dick Howard 233-221-602; Randy Kelder 232; Larry Weishaupt 247.

Colgate, Ithaca Win in Basketball

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Syracuse University's basketball team meets a badly beaten squad from Toronto University tonight.

The Canadians lost at Colgate last night, 88-43, in an ill-matched contest that Saw Colgate's Dave Alton drop in 27 points in 23 minutes of play.

It was Colgates season opener and set the upstate college season rolling.

Ithaca College started its season by overpowering Wilkes (Pa.) College, 73-54, at Ithaca. Co-captain Ray Kirkgasser of Ithaca paced the scoring with 16 points.

Ray Dobrzycki netted 16 points to lead Hartwick College to a 77-58 win at Oneonta over Scranton University. The victory was Hartwick's second in two games.

Fredonia State Teachers College buried Geneseo State Teachers, 68-39, At Fredonia in the opener for both teams.

The Cobleskill Aggies defeated Utica Tech, 54-45, at Cobleskill.

0-S Monties Here Monday

The Kingston Recreations make their second Orange-Sullivan League start Monday night against the powerful Monticello club at the municipal auditorium. Morty Kaplan, the perennial mountain town ace, heads the invading array. Charlie Neff will be in uniform for the first time for the Recs. The feature game starts at 8:45 p. m., preceded by a 7:15 prelim between the Recreation Bs and Elston's Sport Shop.

Deputy's Rescue Work Praised By Deer Hunters

Three Long Island deer hunters will probably never forget their 1950 expedition to the Catskills in search of game. They are William J., George and Walter J. Wolters of 84 Northbridge avenue, Merrick, who were staying at one of the cabins at Ox Bow Lodge near Phoenicia.

The three brothers have written a letter to Sheriff George C. Smith, expressing their appreciation for the work of Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro of Chichester and several members of the Phoenicia Fire Department who rescued them from the flood waters when their cabin was about to be washed away by the flood last Saturday.

All three brothers join in the praise for Deputy Conro who waded through water to his shoulders to carry a rope to the stranded hunters about 1 a. m. Sunday and, with the assistance of Carroll Simpson, Ralph Bush and other members of the Phoenicia Fire Department, were able to haul the trio to higher ground. Conro, carrying a coil of rope waded through the rushing water to the cabin just as the three men had given up after discussing an attempt to swim through the swirling waters.

The Wolters brothers have expressed their appreciation to Sheriff Smith for the work of his men and the firemen and "those individuals who so courageously volunteered to help."

"We cannot help but wonder in astonishment at their courageous actions, particularly Mr. Conro whose determination to effect our rescue, was an example of grim tenacity of purpose," writes the three men.

Mayer and Stran Lead Miami Open

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—A seasoned amateur and a young darkhorse professional fought to maintain an insecure one-stroke lead today in the third round of the 27th annual $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament.

Frank Stranahan, millionaire amateur of Toledo, Ohio, who won the Open two years ago and has captured virtually every amateur title, and Dick Mayer, 27-year-old professional of Old Greenwich, Conn., each carded five under par 65's yesterday to deadlock at 132 for 36 holes.

Hot behind the pair, only a stroke off the pace, were Ted Kroll, whose 32-32—64 was the finest round of the tournament; Jack Burke, Jr., sixth money winner this year; and Jim Turnesa, youngest of the six golfing Turnesa brothers.

Sam Snead, leading money winner this year and three-time winner of the tournament, posted a four under par 66 in probably the most erratic game of the tournament. He was over par on four holes but recovered to fire six birdies and an eagle—two under par.

Thirty-one of the 150 contestants broke par in the second round.

KAA Membership Drive Speeded To Insure 'Little League' Success

President Appeals For Quick Returns

The success of the Kingston Athletic Association's current membership campaign will go a long way in determining the scope of the K.A.A.'s "Little League" baseball program in 1951, President Bob Umpleby announced today.

"Our membership must net us more than a thousand dollars in order to insure success of the Little League," the silver-thatched K.A.A. president said.

Umpleby pointed out that the association's annual all-star junior baseball promotion against the Brooklyn-Against-The-World club was something of a flop and the burden of raising sufficient money to insure the Little League setup rests with the membership sale.

The K.A.A. recruits dollar members and has a special five dollar booster membership.

Several hundred of both types of memberships were mailed to prospective members several days ago and the response has been slow.

Six-Team League

(The KAA president revealed that the organization has spent more than $5,000 in the past four years in the summer baseball program and in trophies, ribbons and dinners for K.H.S. and grade school champions).

"The Little League will be a tremendous boon for junior baseball for youngsters in the 9 to 13-year bracket," Umpleby added. "We will have a six-team league, completely outfitted and playing a regular schedule under the jurisdiction of the Little League Association of America."

"The Little League," he continued, "is a nationwide movement and has the backing of the major leagues. We think this type of baseball will do more for the kids of the city than the old style 'instruction program' the K.A.A. sponsored in previous years. It will be a terrific thrill for a youngster to be in uniform with a regularly organized team playing several games a week."

Future of Baseball

Umpleby was thinking out loud when he hinted that the Little League and a reduced City Baseball League might be the only source of live baseball for city fans in 1951.

"Nobody knows what's going to happen to baseball next year. At the rate the draft is grabbing young men, organized ball will be hurt and there is grave doubt that the City League can operate at its former level. The Little League may be the answer to our baseball needs."

The six teams in the Little League will be sponsored by local organizations and individuals, with the Kingston Athletic Association responsible for the supervision and conduct of the league.

Under the national setup, the junior baseball movement sponsors regional, sectional, state and national tournaments, with the finals scheduled in Wilkes-Barre, Pa. They are played under World Series conditions and in an atmosphere of great excitement and the series is highly publicized by press, radio and movies.

"We invite all sports minded citizens of Kingston and Ulster county to assist us in this promotion," Umpleby said. "We have tried to reach as many people as possible in our membership campaign and will need all the help we can get in our first year."

The K.A.A. president also announced that the annual Hot Stove League sports dinner would be held during the last week in January or the first week in February.

Trailways-New Paltz Match Features Week-end Action in Valley League

Famechon, Gatica Stir Garden Crowd

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Ray Famechon of France and Jose Gatica of Buenos Aires look like a tonic for the ailing fight game if anything can help.

Famechon, a flop against Willie Pep last March, turned in a sparkling show against Archie Devino of Newark, N. J., last night in the Madison Square Garden main go. The Frenchman stopped eager young Archie in 2:43 of the seventh round.

Gatica, a stocky little busybody, made a hit with the small crowd of 5,170 which paid only $16,099 by scoring a fourth round technical knockout over the veteran Terry Young.

The International Boxing Club, impressed by both Famechon and Gatica, started making plans to bring both back in the near future.

Al Weill, IBC matchmaker, was trying to arrange a bout with Artie Aragon for Gatica. This might go into the Dec. 15 spot if Paddy Young does not feel up to his scheduled date with Kid Gavilan.

If Weill cannot make Aragon-Gatica he is thinking of a Gatica-Famechon match. There is one catch there. Gatica, who weighed 138¾ last night must come in at 135 or less. Famechon, European featherweight champ, was only 127¾ against Devino.

Famechon had a ready target in Devino, a willing youngster who was in over his head. The Frenchman put on a brilliant show with his talented left. Sharp shooting through Devino's defense, he scored almost at will. Devino was on the deck for nine in the seventh. He just beat the 10-count but referee Petey Scalzo stopped it.

The handful of customers went for Gatica, who bounced from his corner wearing high-laced white shoes like an acrobat. He swarmed over Terry and dropped him for a one-count in the first. It was no contest with Gatica in charge all the way until Referee Frank Fullman stopped it at 1:12 of the fourth.

Shotton Soured By His Release

Bartow, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—Burt Shotton says he's through with baseball except possibly for "a few odd jobs" because of the way the Brooklyn Dodgers replaced him with Chuck Dressen this week.

Back at his home here after a hunting trip, Shotton said Walter O'Malley, Brooklyn president, informed him of Dressen's appointment only a few hours before it was made public.

"The deal I got this time made me a little sour," said the veteran manager, who guided Brooklyn to the National League championship in 1949 and was nosed out by Philadelphia only in the final game of the 1950 campaign.

Shotton said he has no immediate plans and has no interest in returning to the game in any major capacity.

He indicated he would tell his whole story of the deal when the game's top men meet in St. Petersburg next week for the annual minor and major league meetings.

Colgate, Ithaca Win in Basketball

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Syracuse University's basketball team meets a badly beaten squad from Toronto University tonight.

The Canadians lost at Colgate last night, 88-43, in an ill-matched contest that Saw Colgate's Dave Alton drop in 27 points in 23 minutes of play.

It was Colgates season opener and set the upstate college season rolling.

Ithaca College started its season by overpowering Wilkes (Pa.) College, 73-54, at Ithaca. Co-captain Ray Kirkgasser of Ithaca paced the scoring with 16 points.

Ray Dobrzycki netted 16 points to lead Hartwick College to a 77-58 win at Oneonta over Scranton University. The victory was Hartwick's second in two games.

Fredonia State Teachers College buried Geneseo State Teachers, 68-39, At Fredonia in the opener for both teams.

The Cobleskill Aggies defeated Utica Tech, 54-45, at Cobleskill.

0-S Monties Here Monday

The Kingston Recreations make their second Orange-Sullivan League start Monday night against the powerful Monticello club at the municipal auditorium. Morty Kaplan, the perennial mountain town ace, heads the invading array. Charlie Neff will be in uniform for the first time for the Recs. The feature game starts at 8:45 p. m., preceded by a 7:15 prelim between the Recreation Bs and Elston's Sport Shop.

Deputy's Rescue Work Praised By Deer Hunters

Three Long Island deer hunters will probably never forget their 1950 expedition to the Catskills in search of game. They are William J., George and Walter J. Wolters of 84 Northbridge avenue, Merrick, who were staying at one of the cabins at Ox Bow Lodge near Phoenicia.

The three brothers have written a letter to Sheriff George C. Smith, expressing their appreciation for the work of Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro of Chichester and several members of the Phoenicia Fire Department who rescued them from the flood waters when their cabin was about to be washed away by the flood last Saturday.

All three brothers join in the praise for Deputy Conro who waded through water to his shoulders to carry a rope to the stranded hunters about 1 a. m. Sunday and, with the assistance of Carroll Simpson, Ralph Bush and other members of the Phoenicia Fire Department, were able to haul the trio to higher ground. Conro, carrying a coil of rope waded through the rushing water to the cabin just as the three men had given up after discussing an attempt to swim through the swirling waters.

The Wolters brothers have expressed their appreciation to Sheriff Smith for the work of his men and the firemen and "those individuals who so courageously volunteered to help."

"We cannot help but wonder in astonishment at their courageous actions, particularly Mr. Conro whose determination to effect our rescue, was an example of grim tenacity of purpose," writes the three men.

Mayer and Stran Lead Miami Open

Miami, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP)—A seasoned amateur and a young dark-horse professional fought to maintain an insecure one-stroke lead today in the third round of the 27th annual $10,000 Miami Open golf tournament.

Frank Stranahan, millionaire amateur of Toledo, Ohio, who won the Open two years ago and has captured virtually every amateur title, and Dick Mayer, 27-year-old professional of Old Greenwich, Conn., each carded five under par 65's yesterday to deadlock at 132 for 36 holes.

Hot behind the pair, only a stroke off the pace, were Ted Kroll, whose 32-32—64 was the finest round of the tournament; Jack Burke, Jr., sixth money winner this year; and Jim Turnesa, youngest of the six golfing Turnesa brothers.

Sam Snead, leading money winner this year and three-time winner of the tournament, posted a four under par 66 in probably the most erratic game of the tournament. He was over par on four holes but recovered to fire six birdies and an eagle—two under par.

Thirty-one of the 150 contestants broke par in the second round.

Hollywood — Enrique Bolanos, 137, Los Angeles, stopped Manuel Madrid, 137¾, Los Angeles, 6.

Three Will Be Tough For Kingston Hopes

The word around the DUSO basketball conference is that "Liberty High is loaded," Newburgh Academy has a "pretty fair" outlook and Sam Kalloch's Poughkeepsie High School Blues will be tough.

Where does that leave Coach G. Warren Kias and the normally rugged K.H.S. Maroons?

Specifically, the relative strength of the Poughkeepsie and Maroon squads will be determined on opening night—Friday, Dec. 8, at the municipal auditorium—when the ancient rivals clash headon.

If the Maroon hopes to be a serious contender, it would behoove them to win that opener. That would assure them of an even break against one of the principal contenders. Few DUSO quintets expect to beat the Blues in the Bridge City bandbox that is palmed off as a basketball court.

Masterson Confident

Although lacking six members of last year's DUSO champions—first in the history of the school—Coach George "Lanky" Masterson of Newburgh Free Academy is not pessimistic about his club's chances in the 1950-51 flag race.

Last year Newburgh compiled a record of 21 victories and two defeats. Monticello High contrived to beat them in DUSO play and the second setback was an overwhelming loss to Mont Pleasant High in the intersectional finals.

Missing from this powerful aggregation are Dick Tyler, an all-time N.F.A. cage great who is at North Carolina State; Frank Quimby, John Bowman and John Lodato, all regulars; plus reserves Tom Williams and Bob O'Donovan.

The lone starter back in harness is Matt Chrystal. He is joined by reserves Richie Spreer, who figures to be a big scorer; Jack Pelin, Bob Maher and Ed Wrightmeyer.

Sees Tight Race

Masterson looks for a tight scramble for the DUSO honors since 10 teams are competing this season. He tabs Kingston as the team to beat and has high respect for Poughkeepsie and Liberty. Other entries in the revised DUSO setup are Port Jervis, Middletown, Ellenville, Fallsburg, Beacon and Monticello.

"Poughkeepsie will be tough especially at its small home court," Masterson pointed out. "Liberty, I understand, may be the surprise team in the league. And with this conference style schedule, anything can happen."

The group is being sponsored by the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, and Edward J. Deveau, secretary-treasurer of the council, will assist the new organization during its preliminary stages.

The Auxiliary has announced it will assist the unions in their campaign to further merchant buying of union labeled merchandise, as well as to induce employers to hire union labor in their establishments. They also wish to increase the employment of union labor in building construction work.

"Women educated in unionism use their buying power to help all union members," a spokesman stated. "Records indicate that where such groups exist, the sales of union made merchandise have been substantially increased."

Officers of Ladies' Auxiliary No. 607 elected Thursday night are Kathryn Deveau, president; Beatrice Souers, financial secretary and treasurer; Kathryn Swart, recording secretary; Nancy Smith, conductress; and Hilda Yerry, trustee, all of this city; Delores Kerr, vice president, and Shirley Kerr, warden, of Saugerties; Ethel Lockwood, trustee, of Hurley; and Margaret Haselmayr, trustee, of Port Ewen.

The group received their charter from George E. Yerry, Jr., president, and George W. Race, vice president of the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters.

Notes on Music

(These columns are prepared by Phillip J. Odell, of Woodstock, concert pianist and teacher. The views expressed are his own.)

POPULAR MUSIC

Many students today have a preference for what is called "popular music." This term, "popular music," embraces dance music of the lighter type, and the current songs which we hear over the radio, sung and played by the professional entertainers of our day.

These students, who wish to study popular music exclusively, are very often disappointed when they buy a copy of the latest song hit and endeavor to play it at the pian exactly as it is written. They find that the harmony is "bare" and that, in fact, it is a mere skeleton of the version of that number which was played so much more interestingly by the professional "jazz pianist" or even the fairly accomplished "ear player."

The study of popular and jazz music for the piano is a science and an art in itself, and requires a thorough education in keyboard harmony, a rounded technique (just as classical music does), the ability to become a good note reader.

The "popular" piano student is required to know how to transpose at sight, and how to form his own "style" after he has learned all the chord positions in all their respective inversions, and how to construct from these chord positions what is commonly called the professional bass. Put in other words, this means the most interesting left hand arrangement possible.

The student who makes a full time study of popular music for the piano must also learn how to embellish spontaneously with the right hand the melodies which he sees in their skeleton forms on the printed page.

The study of popular music when pursued correctly is fascinating. Chord construction and the creation of a "style" encourage the student to learn improvisation, which is music in its truest form.

There is a course on popular music called the Lee Simms Course, which comes in two volumes, Book One, for the beginner, and Book Two for advanced pupils. These books are excellent. They are thorough and assure a genuinely good foundation in popular music. However, they should be studied with the aid of a teacher for, if a real education in popular piano playing is desired by the pupil, he will need additional material for study. After the Simms books have been mastered, the student must be guided into creating a novel style for himself.

Unlike classical music, popular music demands that players vary widely in their arrangements of all popular numbers.

Large Collection of Furs for Chrismas

Gifts for her can be glamorous this year without being costly. The hostess apron (upper left) tells a picture story of the first automobiles. A small petal scarf (upper center) is silverblue mink. Handsome costume jewelry set (upper right) includes lyre necklace and matching earrings in pearls and steel grey beads. A thick rope of ermine (right) can be worn many ways, is useful and versatile. The cold-weather boots (lower left) are pretty and practical. They're made of nylon, have rubber soles and are trimmed with shearling. A mink necklet (lower center) is a budget buy trimmed with pastel flowers. It ties on with black silk ribbons.

There's no getting away from it. The women who will get what's known as the "good little mink" this Christmas are in the minority. The great majority, therefore, shouldn't be left out in the cold. And they needn't be, since there are furs for every woman this year at prices which are lower than you think.

From a large collection of fur bow ties handbags, flowers, tiaras, scarves, belts, shoes, bracelets, necklets and slippers, the man who works for a living can pick. He might for instance, spend a very tiny sum and for it, get a mink whimsy in the form of a necklet with flower buds, designed by Van Syl.

Or, he might spend a bit more and buy, for the woman in his life, Esther Dorothy's exaggerated petal scarf in silverblue mink. This, incidentally, is a fur scarf ideally suited to the small woman.

A third of the many possibilities is a long, thick rope of white ermine, designed by Esther Dorothy to fulfill every woman's dream of owning ermine. It's to be worn in many ways. It loops into choker and strand, like a string of 1925 pearls, and looped thus, can be worn front or back. It forms a double loop about the shoulders, providing a lovely frame for a strapeless dress. Its tricks are endless.

But if a man's fancy doesn't run to furs, he might like to give one of Brooke Cadwallader's fancy hostess aprons. There is, for one, an apron in silk twill called "F.O.B. Detroit" which recalls the days of the first gasoline buggies in authentic four-color pictures on a white ground. Another possible choice is an apron done by this same designer in imported Swiss organdy, portraying huge pink shadow roses on black-veiled marble.

Glitter glass, in the form of handsome costume jewelry, is attractive to any woman. Pearls and steel gray beads are combined by Majeska in a new lyre necklace which has matching cluster earrings in gray, tipped with white seed pearls.

Another Majeska design combines pearls, jet beads and rhinestone rondelles in a flat, seven-strand collar. There are matching chandelier earrings and a wide, spectacular bracelet which is like a deep cuff.

Says U. S. Missionaries Held by Chinese Reds

Hong Kong, Dec. 2 (AP)—Chinese press reports today from Canton said three American missionaries were arrested south of Canton Nov. 14 by Chinese Communists who claimed to have seized a generator, a radio set and seven pistols.

Dispatches said the missionaries were operating a leprosarium at Sunwui, 46 miles south of Canton. Missionary sources in Hong Kong were unable to confirm the reports but said there was a laprosarium near Sunwui operated by the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America. Two Maryknoll Fathers were known to be working there.

The dispatches said the arrested missionaries were sent to Kongmoon on the Pearl river where they were to have been publicly denounced "in order to further stimulate the people's anti-American sentiment."

Notes on Music

POPULAR MUSIC

Many students today have a preference for what is called "popular music." This term, "popular music," embraces dance music of the lighter type, and the current songs which we hear over the radio, sung and played by the professional entertainers of our day.

These students, who wish to study popular music exclusively, are very often disappointed when they buy a copy of the latest song hit and endeavor to play it at the pian exactly as it is written. They find that the harmony is "bare" and that, in fact, it is a mere skeleton of the version of that number which was played so much more interestingly by the professional "jazz pianist" or even the fairly accomplished "ear player."

The study of popular and jazz music for the piano is a science and an art in itself, and requires a thorough education in keyboard harmony, a rounded technique (just as classical music does), the ability to become a good note reader.

The "popular" piano student is required to know how to transpose at sight, and how to form his own "style" after he has learned all the chord positions in all their respective inversions, and how to construct from these chord positions what is commonly called the professional bass. Put in other words, this means the most interesting left hand arrangement possible.

The student who makes a full time study of popular music for the piano must also learn how to embellish spontaneously with the right hand the melodies which he sees in their skeleton forms on the printed page.

The study of popular music when pursued correctly is fascinating. Chord construction and the creation of a "style" encourage the student to learn improvisation, which is music in its truest form.

There is a course on popular music called the Lee Simms Course, which comes in two volumes, Book One, for the beginner, and Book Two for advanced pupils. These books are excellent. They are thorough and assure a genuinely good foundation in popular music. However, they should be studied with the aid of a teacher for, if a real education in popular piano playing is desired by the pupil, he will need additional material for study. After the Simms books have been mastered, the student must be guided into creating a norel style for himself.

Unlike classical music, popular music demands that players vary widely in their arrangements of all popular numbers.

Gifts for her can be glamorous this year without being costly. The hostess apron (upper left) tells a picture story of the first automobiles. A small petal scarf (upper center) is silverblue mink. Handsome costume jewelry set (upper right) includes lyre necklace and matching earrings in pearls and steel grey beads. A thick rope of ermine (right) can be worn many ways, is useful and versatile. The cold-weather boots (lower left) are pretty and practical. They're made of nylon, have rubber soles and are trimmed with shearling. A mink necklet (lower center) is a budget buy trimmed with pastel flowers. It ties on with black silk ribbons.

There's no getting away from it. The women who will get what's known as the "good little mink" this Christmas are in the minority. The great majority, therefore, shouldn't be left out in the cold. And they needn't be, since there are furs for every woman this year at prices which are lower than you think.

From a large collection of fur bow ties handbags, flowers, tiaras, scarves, belts, shoes, bracelets, necklets and slippers, the man who works for a living can pick. He might for instance, spend a very tiny sum and for it, get a mink whimsy in the form of a necklet with flower buds, designed by Van Syl.

Or, he might spend a bit more and buy, for the woman in his life, Esther Dorothy's exaggerated petal scarf in silverblue mink. This, incidentally, is a fur scarf ideally suited to the small woman.

A third of the many possibilities is a long, thick rope of white ermine, designed by Esther Dorothy to fulfill every woman's dream of owning ermine. It's to be worn in many ways. It loops into choker and strand, like a string of 1925 pearls, and looped thus, can be worn front or back. It forms a double loop about the shoulders, providing a lovely frame for a strapeless dress. Its tricks are endless.

But if a man's fancy doesn't run to furs, he might like to give one of Brooke Cadwallader's fancy hostess aprons. There is, for one, an apron in silk twill called "F.O.B. Detroit" which recalls the days of the first gasoline buggies in authentic four-color pictures on a white ground. Another possible choice is an apron done by this same designer in imported Swiss organdy, portraying huge pink shadow roses on black-veiled marble.

Glitter glass, in the form of handsome costume jewelry, is attractive to any woman. Pearls and steel gray beads are combined by Majeska in a new lyre necklace which has matching cluster earrings in gray, tipped with white seed pearls.

Another Majeska design combines pearls, jet beads and rhinestone rondelles in a flat, seven-strand collar. There are matching chandelier earrings and a wide, spectacular bracelet which is like a deep cuff.

Says U. S. Missionaries Held by Chinese Reds

Hong Kong, Dec. 2 (AP)—Chinese press reports today from Canton said three American missionaries were arrested south of Canton Nov. 14 by Chinese Communists who claimed to have seized a generator, a radio set and seven pistols.

Dispatches said the missionaries were operating a leprosarium at Sunwui, 46 miles south of Canton. Missionary sources in Hong Kong were unable to confirm the reports but said there was a leprosarium near Sunwui operated by the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America. Two Maryknoll Fathers were known to be working there.

The dispatches said the arrested missionaries were sent to Kongmoon on the Pearl river where they were to have been publicly denounced "in order to further stimulate the people's anti-American sentiment."

Brodhead, Three Others Hurt in Auto Accident

Palmer Brodhead of 86 Harding avenue, Kingston, and three Schenectady youths were injured in an automobile accident on Albany avenue this morning.

Brodhead was taken to Kingston Hospital, where his condition has been reported as "good." Also at the hospital, both reported in good condition, are William Redner, 22 and Walter Taber, 18, of Schenectady. Walter Edward Harwood, 22, owner of the automobile in which the Schenectady men were riding, was released following treatment at the hospital this morning.

Haver Named Special Aide in Perjury Trial

Former District Attorney N. Le Van Haver of this city has been retained by District Attorney Julian B. Erway of Albany as special assistant to try Coplin Yaras, Albany lawyer, on charges of first degree perjury.

The order, approving appointment of Haver, was signed yesterday in Albany by County Judge Earl H. Gallup and filed late Friday afternoon in the Albany county clerk's office.

Trial of the three perjury indictments against Yaras, will open Monday before Supreme Court here.

Yaras was indicted for first degree perjury in connection with applications for reduction of the 1949 assessments on three properties he owned. The indictments were ordered to Ulster county for trial by Supreme Court Justice Kenneth S. MacAffer, on a defense motion that a fair trial could not be obtained in Albany county.

Assistant District Attorneys Harold E. Koreman and Philip G. Coffey, Jr., of Albany county will be associated with Haver in the prosecution. Ernest B. Morris, Albany attorney, will be defense counsel.

Denies Costello Link

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Bronx Democratic Leader Edward J. Flynn wants to go before a grand jury to deny charges made by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey linking him politically with gambler Frank Costello. In a letter yesterday to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, Flynn termed Dewey's election campagin statements "utterly false." Flynn asked to go before the Manhattan grand jury currently probing any tieups between the underworld and Democratic politicians. "I do not know Frank Costello, have never seen him and most certainly have no relationship with him or any other member of the underworld," Flynn said in his letter.

Fire on Board Ship

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)— A brief, three-alarm fire early today sent fire boats and land engines racing to the Swedish steamship Bokefors at her Brooklyn pier. The blaze, of unknown origin, flared in a cargo of sisal in a forward hold, but was quickly brought under control. Sisal is a hemp-like fibre used in rope-making. The city fireboat Gaynor, moored less than a block away, was on the spot within minutes. There were no injuries and damage was slight.

700 A-Bombs

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—America now has a stockpile of about 700 atomic bombs, Look magazine estimates. The magazine said it also believes there are only doubtful chances of success in making the hydrogen bomb. The 700 A-bomb estimate is quite a bit higher than any previously published guesses —which have placed the stockpile between 200 to 400. The article, which appears in next Tuesday's issue, was written by Stephen White, a former science writer for the New York Herald Tribune.

"Here's one for your pity-or-blame department," writes a Cincinnati correspondent. This little tragedy brought about much weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth—especially since East-West scored the rubber on the very next hand!

"South had visions of a grand slam when his partner made a jump bid in clubs and then showed a very strong preference for spades. However, the Blackwood four no-trump bid got a response of only five hearts, showing two aces; and South had to be satisfied with a small slam contract.

"West opened the ace of diamonds, dropping South's singleton king. He then continued with the five of diamonds. South played the ten from dummy, East covered with the jack, and South ruffed.

"South then led a low trump from his hand! West made haste to put up the nine of spades in order to force out dummy's king of trumps. (He didn't really expect South to take a fancy trump finesse, but West saw no reason to take a chance against a slam contract.) That was the end, of course. South had to lose a trump trick, and he was therefore set one trick.

"South claimed that he thought West had opened a long diamond suit. In that case it was a little more likely that East would have long trumps than that West would have long diamonds and also long trumps. Was there anything in this reasoning? In any case, was South more to be pitied than blamed for losing his slam?"

I'm sorry to say that South deserves more blame than pity for booting this slam. It was hard luck, of course, to find all the trumps in one hand, but South might have delved a little more deeply into the opening leader's psychology.

When does a good player lead an ace against a slam contract? Very seldom. If he has an ace, he will usually try to set up a trick in a different suit so that he can cash that other trick when his ace is knocked out.

However, a good player will lead an ace if there is great danger that he will lose it if he doesn't take it at once. And a good player will lead an ace against a slam if he has prospects of a trump trick.

There was nothing absolutely sure about this case, but there was a distinct possibility that West had led his ace because he hoped to get a trump trick later. Because of that possibility, South should have begun the trumps by cashing his ace. Then East's failure to follow suit would dictate a trump finesse through West.

Haver Named Special Aide in Perjury Trial

Former District Attorney N. Le Van Haver of this city has been retained by District Attorney Julian B. Erway of Albany as special assistant to try Coplin Yaras, Albany lawyer, on charges of first degree perjury.

The order, approving appointment of Haver, was signed yesterday in Albany by County Judge Earl H. Gallup and filed late Friday afternoon in the Albany county clerk's office.

Trial of the three perjury indictments against Yaras, will open Monday before Supreme Court here.

Yaras was indicted for first degree perjury in connection with applications for reduction of the 1949 assessments on three properties he owned. The indictments were ordered to Ulster county for trial by Supreme Court Justice Kenneth S. MacAffer, on a defense motion that a fair trial could not be obtained in Albany county.

Assistant District Attorneys Harold E. Koreman and Philip G. Coffey, Jr., of Albany county will be associated with Haver in the prosecution. Ernest B. Morris, Albany attorney, will be defense counsel.

Denies Costello Link

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Bronx Democratic Leader Edward J. Flynn wants to go before a grand jury to deny charges made by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey linking him politically with gambler Frank Costello. In a letter yesterday to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan, Flynn termed Dewey's election campagin statements "utterly false." Flynn asked to go before the Manhattan grand jury currently probing any tieups between the underworld and Democratic politicians. "I do not know Frank Costello, have never seen him and most certainly have no relationship with him or any other member of the underworld," Flynn said in his letter.

Fire on Board Ship

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)— A brief, three-alarm fire early today sent fire boats and land engines racing to the Swedish steamship Bokefors at her Brooklyn pier. The blaze, of unknown origin, flared in a cargo of sisal in a forward hold, but was quickly brought under control. Sisal is a hemp-like fibre used in rope-making. The city fireboat Gaynor, moored less than a block away, was on the spot within minutes. There were no injuries and damage was slight.

700 A-Bombs

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—America now has a stockpile of about 700 atomic bombs, Look magazine estimates. The magazine said it also believes there are only doubtful chances of success in making the hydrogen bomb. The 700 A-bomb estimate is quite a bit higher than any previously published guesses —which have placed the stockpile between 200 to 400. The article, which appears in next Tuesday's issue, was written by Stephen White, a former science writer for the New York Herald Tribune.

In that case it was a little more likely that East would have long trumps than that West would have long diamonds and also long trumps. Was there anything in this reasoning? In any case, was South more to be pitied than blamed for losing his slam?"

I'm sorry to say that South deserves more blame than pity for booting this slam. It was hard luck, of course, to find all the trumps in one hand, but South might have delved a little more deeply into the opening leader's psychology.

When does a good player lead an ace against a slam contract? Very seldom. If he has an ace, he will usually try to set up a trick in a different suit so that he can cash that other trick when his ace is knocked out.

However, a good player will lead an ace if there is great danger that he will lose it if he doesn't take it at once. And a good player will lead an ace against a slam if he has prospects of a trump trick.

There was nothing absolutely sure about this case, but there was a distinct possibility that West had led his ace because he hoped to get a trump trick later. Because of that possibility, South should have begun the trumps by cashing his ace. Then East's failure to follow suit would dictate a trump finesse through West.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Dec. 2—Harold Pierson of Ossining will be at the Sunday afternoon service in the Glenford Methodist Church and will present the recording and music of Bishop Oxnam's "Reformation Day" address, as delivered in October. Every one is invited to attend this inspiring service which begins at 2:30.

Mona and Volka Dohler are new pupils in teacher Mildred McLaughlin's room at the Ashokan school.

Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Mastrota of New York are sojourning at their summer home on the Onteora Trail.

Recently, a large flock of wild geese decended upon the streets of Walton and spent the night in the Delaware county burg which has been hosts to such flocks upon two other occasions in the past 10 years. The geese honked all night and said goodbye early next morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haver are the parents of a daughter born Monday morning. Mrs. Haver is the former Lorrfania Tweedy of Olive Bridge.

Having a birthday this Thursday are Bertha Greene and Dr. Shem Everett, both of whom are natives of this section. Bertha's early home here was south of the present viaduct on the reservoir road where her parents, George and Mary Greene, had a farm. She has two brothers, Will and Charles. . . . Doctor Everett was born and brought up in the old village of Shokan, one of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Everett. He resides and practices medicine in Pennsylvania where he also conducts one of the largest Bible schools in the state.

Alva Buley, Sr., Tonche Mountain farmer, has employment on the county roads with his truck. Bob DuBois and Alfred Iapoce of Ashokan are working with state highway crews in the storm-battered Shandaken area. Frequent passage of all kinds of road machinery through the village this week indicates a deal of reconstruction activity up the line.

Anthony Masolina and Irving Weeks are reported to have discontinued their work over at the big Lackawack waterworks project for the winter. Anthony is now operating his barber shop in the west and every weekday.

Mrs. Edward G. West and some of her Shokan school pupils had a pleasant Saturday trip to Albany recently.

Willy Kohler, who operates a farm and boardinghouse in the Lomontville section of Mabletown, was a recent caller in the village center. He is a brother of Mrs. Otto Dohler, a new resident of Shokan. George Kelder with Kingston friends on Manday visited in Torrington, Conn.

Elder Arnold Bellows, pastor of the Olive & Hurley O. S. Baptist Society and several affiliated units in Delaware county, is feeling all right again following a sudden attack of illness in a Washington, D. C., bus terminal. The leder, who carries on religious work in several states, reportedly became ill as a result of over-exertion and a heavy cold.

Birthdays falling Nov. 29, include that of Wm. J. Loos, Inwood, L. I., resident and Shokan property holder. "Bill" was born at Hewlitt and attended Lawence High School at Inwood. He was an inspector in an airplane plant during the war and also was employed on construction of a base in the West Indies. He is married and has three daughters.

No serious damage in this locality resulted from the storm though the brooks were well over their banks in some places. Again, as in many an instance in the past when Nature has gone on a rampage, Shokan and immediate vicinity "got off easy."

James Fairbairn, a retired civil engineer, and wife are settled in their new home, the former George McNamara place on the Onteora Trail. The couple, who came here from Long Island, plan to reside here the year round.

Add unusual accidents: A Delhi man while driving a new station wagon on 28 near Fleischmanns, plowed off the road and knocked down three guard posts. Seems the driver's two small sons in the rear of the car kept stepping on their dog's tail, and his attempt to put a stop to this mischief while in motion brought about the mishap. (No one, including the dog, was hurt.)

Louis Thiel, retired farmer, collector of old firearms and noted raconteur, is home again following a vacation trip of three weeks to northern New Jersey and Easton, Pa. "Lou," while visiting his daughter, Mrs. James Armstrong, in Annandale, experienced the fury and the might of Jersey's Saturday gale and he didn't like it. "No place quite like Shokan," asseverated this old timer upon being interviewed at the uptown Kingston bus depot.

Woman Is Fined

An East Kingston woman was fined $2 by City Judge Raymond Mino this morning for using profane and offensive language while police were questioning her husband on Ann street at 9:30 a. m. today. Patrolman Edward Leonard, who filed the information against the woman, said he was questioning Henry Stokley, 46, about some cuts on his face which Stokley said he received when he "fell down stairs." Stokley's wife, Maxine, 40, appeared on the scene and began to berate her husband, the officer charged, on the public sidewalk on Ann street. Both were brought directly to City Court, where Mrs. Stokley pleaded guilty and was fined $2. A public intoxication charge was lodged against Stokley and arraignment was put off until tomorrow.

Calls Special Meeting

Rome, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Luigi Einaudi has called a special meeting of Italy's Defense Council for Monday after a round of urgent conferences by government leaders on the grim international situation. Einaudi conferred with Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza for more than an hour last night. Sforza then hurried to another hour-long talk with Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi. While the discussions were in progress, groups of Communists paraded before the government buildings chanting "Peace! Peace!" Riot police in jeeps kept the demonstration within limits.

Returns From Survey

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—William C. Foster, Economic Cooperation Administration chief, returned by air today from a 28-day survey of Southeast Asian countries receiving Marshall Plan aid. He took off from here for Washington, where he expects to confer with President Truman. Foster told reporters much had been accomplished in Southeast Asia by the aid program, but that there was great need for increased aid immediately, particularly in Japan, Formosa, Indo-China and Thailand.

Urges Aid for TB

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Acting Gov. Joe R. Hanley urges New Yorkers to help fight tuberculosis by buying Christmas Seals issued by the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health. Hanley yesterday proclaimed December "Christmas Seals Month" in the state. He said the work of the committee and other voluntary agencies was "indispensable" in the state's drive to wipe out tuberculosis within 20 years.

Calls on Countrymen

Seoul, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Korean republic's president called on his countrymen today for an all-out effort against the Chinese Reds, saying that Koreans have behind them "the vast strength of the United States" and "whatever weapons are necessary."

Pyongyang Attack

All travelers were checked rigidly at the capital's entrances.

Air observers reported 12,000 Chinese were swarming in an area only 25 miles northeast of Pyongyang.

At least three Red Chinese divisions were on the move south of the Chongchon river, the old line from which MacArthur launched his "end-the-war" offensive Nov. 24, just over a week ago.

Other Red divisions were rolling toward the Eighth Army's weakened right flank.

The flight from Pyongyang began after the fall of Songchon, road hub 30 miles northeast of the former Red capital. Front-line dispatches did not say when or how the Reds seized Songchon.

Try to Hold Line

American foot troops early Saturday launched a counterattack aiming to retake Songchon and anchor the eastern end of their new defense line in the town.

They drove nearly five miles in the first hours and were fighting within one mile of Songchon. But Chinese troops in strength were well south of the town.

While the Chinese mounted the second stage of their big offensive in the northwest, other Red forces were massing in remote central hills for an eastward smash to the Sea of Japan.

Winter-clad Chinese already had started moving on Wonsan, the big east coast seaport base of the U. S. 10th Corps which is fighting along an extended front in northeast Korea.

The Chinese launched their thrust from the Yangdok area 40 miles west of Wonsan.

This drive threatened to isolate the critically extended 10th Corps. It has thin American and South Korean columns scattered in long lines over a wide and mountainous area.

The hardest hit 10th Corps area was around Changjin reservoir, supplier of electric power to Manchuria.

There U. S. Seventh Division units trapped along the east shores fought their way into Hagaru, a town just south of Changjin.

Two U. S. First Marine regiments were fighting out toward the town along the west bank. Advance units were reported within four miles of Hagaru.

7th Chewed Up

The Seventh Division units which reached the town were badly chewed up, AP Correspondent Tom Stone reported from the northeast front. They suffered heavy losses both in men and equipment.

Hagaru, held by some marine units, is the springboard for retreat to Hamhung, east coast industrial city north of Wonsan. But the Reds blocked a seven-mile stretch of the road between Hagaru and Koto. They were reported closing in on Hagaru from the southeast, south and southwest.

To reach the coast, the marines will have to fight through an estimated three Red regiments which air observers said were being reinforced constantly.

With Chinese forces cutting in far behind this advanced position, the 17th's situation obviously would become precarious if it remained along the border.

The South Korean Capital Division along the east coast north of Changjin and only 40 miles from Soviet Siberia was in a similar dangerous position.

B-29 bombers slammed 160 tons of demolition and incendiary bombs Saturday at Chinese supply dumps and communications lines.

Allied planes dropped 250 tons of supplies and ammunition to marines and doughboys in the Changjin area who were sut-off from the Hamhung base.

Other planes roared over the northwest front, machinegunning, rocketing and bombing Chinese troops.

At one point mounted Chinese cavalry maintained close ranks in the face of blistering air attacks.

Plunges to Death

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Jay Vergil Scott, Jr., 32, of Houston, Tex., was killed today when he fell or jumped from an eighth floor window of an apartment house at 151 West 56th street. Police said that Scott and Don Dunphy of Jamaica, Queens, had been visiting at the apartment of Mrs. Winifred Nason, a registered nurse. They said Dunphy noticed that Scott was missing at 8:45 a. m. and found his body in a courtyard.

Area Members Attend Ritter's Installation

Three members of the Ulster County Real Estate Board attended a luncheon meeting at Albeny on Friday during which C. Fred Ritter of Middletown was installed as president of the state association of real estate boards.

Members of the Ulster county board who attended were George Moore, president, F. T. Loomis, and Lawrence MacAvery, secretary. MacAvery was a member of the committee that planed the istallation. W. Sanford Durland of Orange county was toastmaster.

Benedict F. McGrath, of Westchester county, the retiring state president, was praised by the group for his work during the past year, and especially for his efforts in obtaining legislation affecting the various phases of the real estate business. Speakers included John D. Butt of New York, chairman of the owners' division; Robert J. Conan, Syracuse, president of the New York State Society of Real Estate Appraisers, and Harry P. Ruppert of Rochester, past president and chairman of the executive committee of the association.

Ritter, the new state president, is expected to be the guest of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at its annual meeting in January.

No More Men . . .

military leaders are not going to pick Korea as the place to fight World War 3."

Another said he had asked for a breakdown on disposition of the more than 2,250,000 U. S. troops President Truman said are now under arms. Of these MacArthur is reported commanding seven U.S. Divisions which would mean around 100,000 men.

Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday in asking for new military appropriations of $16,800,000,000 that because of the Communist agrression "we face the necessity of having to raise our sights, both in terms of manpower and in terms of production" beyond the previous goal of having 2,800,000 men under arms by next July 1.

The President didn't say so, but many in Congress believed that much of the proposed increase in manpower would be channeled toward Europe, rather than Asia. And it would be months in coming.

credit for instalment plan buying was slowed in October, when time-buying controls were tightened, to one-seventh the rate of any of the five preceding months.

Clamped on in mid-October, the curbs on credit for buying homes or cars, television sets, refrigerators and so on were about the first orders the government aimed at the civilian economy.

Neither appeared to have had a drastic general effect. Private homebuilding last month was the highest ever for a November—$1,020,000,000—and the total instalment debt forged to a new record high of $13,379,000,000 at November's start. But the rate of increase slacked off some and the squeeze-power will be reinforced shortly by cutbacks ordered in civilian use of important materials.

Trumans Leave for Game

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Truman, taking a brief respite from grave international problems, left for Philadelphia by train today to keep a long-standing promise to attend the Army-Navy football game. The President and Mrs. Truman arrived at Union Station 15 minutes before the 8:42 a. m. (EST) departure time and boarded a special train immediately. Their daughter, Margaret, had another engagement. The train, including the presidential bullet-proof private car, is due at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium at 11:28 a. m. It will return to Washington early tonight, departing from a siding near the stadium 30 minutes after the close of the game.

Government Will

of the county. For the past several years, accurate records of apples in 27 storages have been kept for the Farm Bureau for comparative purposes. These 27 storages represent about half the total storage holdings in the county.

On November 1, this year, the 27 storages reported a total of 946,959 bushels in storage. The same 27 storages reported 926,569 bushels on November 1, 1949. On November 1, 1948, the holding in those storages totaled 529,975. The 1947 holdings totaled 847,444 bushels, and the 1946 holdings, 660,588 bushels.

Figures for McIntosh holdings on November 1 at the 27 storages were 585,697 bushels in 1950; 509,080 bushels in 1949; 269,626 bushels in 1948; 454,597 bushels in 1947, and 282,400 bushels in 1946.

Holdings of Cortland apples showed a slight decrease from the 1949 holdings. There were 73,202 bushels of Cortlands in storage at 27 county storages November 1, 1950, compared to 85,203 bushels in 1949.

Northern Spy apples, on the other hand, showed a marked increase over past years. This year, the surveyed storages reported holding 35,488 bushels of that variety of apple, compared to 10,897 bushels in 1949 and 8,980 in 1948.

The gradual decline in the Ben Davis variety of apple is noticeable in a comparison of figures for the 27 storages. In 1946, holdings of 13,553 bushels of Ben Davis apples were reported. In 1947, the number of bushels was down to 9,975, and further decreased to 7,216 the following year. By 1949, only 3,556 bushels of this variety were in storage on November 1, and this year the total holdings dwindled to 1,055.

A recapitulation of the number of bushels of various varieties of apples in the 27 county storages on November 1, 1950, follows: McIntosh, 585,697; Cortland, 73,202; Red Delicious, 95,504; Golden Delicious, 31,662; Rome Beauty, 55,741; Baldwin, 27,150; R. I. Greening, 17,059; N. Spy, 35,468; Ben Davis, 1,055; Staymen, 5,173; Newtown Pippins, 2,552; Wealthy, 550; others, 16,126.

Secret Session . . .

trying to force Washington's views on them.

Just what these views are he refused to say, but declared they would be made public later unless there are unforeseen complications at an international level.

The ambassador from one country, which has made a substantial contribution to the fighting forces in Korea, predicted that:

1. The Assembly would be asked to condemn the Chinese Reds as aggressors and request them to withdraw.

2. If they fail to comply—and if the first resolution was passed with an impressive majority—the Assembly would be asked to recommend that U.N. members use their military units to enforce compliance.

Under this second possible resolution Gen. MacArthur would have the implied authority to take whatever steps he considered necessary to end the Chinese Communist menace to U.N. forces now fighting in Korea.

It is not known if these are the American views now being discussed secretly with other countries.

Most delegations here are extremely reluctant to take any step which would irrevocably mean war with China and possibly Russia. They have made it clear, however, that they are equally determined not to back away from the U.N. commitment in Korea.

Gets 40 Days

Libes Freenman, 22, of Lattintown was sentenced to a total of 40 days in jail by Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey of Marlborough Friday night on charges of operating a vehicle with improper registration plates and without an operator's license. State police at Highland said Freenman was arrested on a routine check.

Nine Catholics Are

fine for Premonstrate Abbot Stanislav Jarolimek, 50, of the Strahov Monastery in Prague.

The nine defendants, seated at first with each sandwiched between two khaki-clad policemen, rose to hear their sentence. They faced the tribunal slightly bowed and gave no outward signs of emotion.

The sentencing over, the convicted clerics were asked whether they planned to appeal. The nine conferred briefly with their attorneys. Then each defendant took the witness stand to say that he accepted the judgment.

Had Helped Prosecution

All nine had cooperated with the prosecution. They confessed to the charges against them and declared their repentence — asserting that the church heirarchy had led them into anti-state activities.

Defense lawyers conceded their clients' guilt but stressed extenuating circumstances.

The six other churchmen sentenced today were:

Father Joseph Cihak, 70-year-old prelate archdeacon of the Metropolitan Chapter at St. Vitus Cathedral in Prague—10 years and 150,000 crowns or one extra year in prison in lieu of the fine.

Father Jaroslav Kulac, 63, head of the Missionary Federation of Clergy—17 years and 40,000 crowns.

Father Antonin Mandl, 37, former secretary of the Catholic Action group here—25 years and 20,000 crowns.

Msgr. Jan Boukal, 44, first secretary to Prague Archbishop Joseph Beran—18 years and 50,000 crowns.

Father Vaclav Mrtvy, 43, Salesian priest—15 years and 10,000 crowns.

Father Otakar Svec, Pope's prelate and metropolitan canon—20 years and 50,000 crowns.

All nine men in addition were deprived of their citizens' rights for 10 years.

Alerted for Elections

Berlin, Dec. 2 (AP)—West Berlin's strongly armed police force went on a special alert today to guard against threatened Communist violence in the city election beginning at midnight. Police Chief Johannes Stumm, with 138,000 men under his command, ordered motorized riot squads concentrated at key stations in the allied sectors, as West Berliners prepared to elect a municipal government for the next four years.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Dec. 2—Harold Pierson of Ossining will be at the Sunday afternoon service in the Glenford Methodist Church and will present the recording and music of Bishop Oxnam's "Reformation Day" address, as delivered in October. Every one is invited to attend this inspiring service which begins at 2:30.

Mona and Volka Dohler are new pupils in teacher Mildred McLaughlin's room at the Ashokan school.

Mr. and Mrs. Pietro Mastrota of New York are sojourning at their summer home on the Onteora Trail.

Recently, a large flock of wild geese decended upon the streets of Walton and spent the night in the Delaware county burg which has been hosts to such flocks upon two other occasions in the past 10 years. The geese honked all night and said goodbye early next morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haver are the parents of a daughter born Monday morning. Mrs. Haver is the former Lorrfania Tweedy of Olive Bridge.

Having a birthday this Thursday are Bertha Greene and Dr. Shem Everett, both of whom are natives of this section. Bertha's early home here was south of the present viaduct on the reservoir road where her parents, George and Mary Greene, had a farm. She has two brothers, Will and Charles. . . . Doctor Everett was born and brought up in the old village of Shokan, one of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Everett. He resides and practices medicine in Pennsylvania where he also conducts one of the largest Bible schools in the state.

Alva Buley, Sr., Tonche Mountain farmer, has employment on the county roads with his truck. Bob DuBois and Alfred Iapoce of Ashokan are working with state highway crews in the storm-battered Shandaken area. Frequent passage of all kinds of road machinery through the village this week indicates a deal of reconstruction activity up the line.

Anthony Masolina and Irving Weeks are reported to have discontinued their work over at the big Lackawack waterworks project for the winter. Anthony is now operating his barber shop in the west and every weekday.

Mrs. Edward G. West and some of her Shokan school pupils had a pleasant Saturday trip to Albany recently.

Willy Kohler, who operates a farm and boardinghouse in the Lomontville section of Mabletown, was a recent caller in the village center. He is a brother of Mrs. Otto Dohler, a new resident of Shokan. George Kelder with Kingston friends on Manday visited in Torrington, Conn.

Elder Arnold Bellows, pastor of the Olive & Hurley O. S. Baptist Society and several affiliated units in Delaware county, is feeling all right again following a sudden attack of illness in a Washington, D. C., bus terminal. The leder, who carries on religious work in several states, reportedly became ill as a result of over- exertion and a heavy cold.

Birthdays falling Nov. 29, include that of Wm. J. Loos, Inwood, L. I., resident and Shokan property holder. "Bill" was born at Hewlitt and attended Lawence High School at Inwood. He was an inspector in an airplane plant during the war and also was employed on construction of a base in the West Indies. He is married and has three daughters.

No serious damage in this locality resulted from the storm though the brooks were well over their banks in some places. Again, as in many an instance in the past when Nature has gone on a rampage, Shokan and immediate vicinity "got off easy."

James Fairbairn, a retired civil engineer, and wife are settled in their new home, the former George McNamara place on the Onteora Trail. The couple, who came here from Long Island, plan to reside here the year round.

Add unussual accidents: A Delhi man while driving a new station wagon on 28 near Fleischmanns, plowed off the road and knocked down three guard posts. Seems the driver's two small sons in the rear of the car kept stepping on their dog's tail, and his attempt to put a stop to this mischief while in motion brought about the mishap. (No one, including the dog, was hurt.)

Louis Thiel, retired farmer, collector of old firearms and noted raconteur, is home again following a vacation trip of three weeks to northern New Jersey and Easton, Pa. "Lou," while visiting his daughter, Mrs. James Armstrong, in Annandale, experienced the fury and the might of Jersey's Saturday gale and he didn't like it. "No place quite like Shokan," asseverated this old timer upon being interviewed at the uptown Kingston bus depot.

Woman Is Fined

An East Kingston woman was fined $2 by City Judge Raymond Mino this morning for using profane and offensive language while police were questioning her husband on Ann street at 9:30 a. m. today. Patrolman Edward Leonard, who filed the information against the woman, said he was questioning Henry Stokley, 46, about some cuts on his face which Stokley said he received when he "fell down stairs." Stokley's wife, Maxine, 40, appeared on the scene and began to berate her husband, the officer charged, on the public sidewalk on Ann street. Both were brought directly to City Court, where Mrs. Stokley pleaded guilty and was fined $2. A public intoxication charge was lodged against Stokley and arraignment was put off until tomorrow.

Calls Special Meeting

Rome, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Luigi Einaudi has called a special meeting of Italy's Defense Council for Monday after a round of urgent conferences by government leaders on the grim international situation. Einaudi conferred with Foreign Minister Carlo Sforza for more than an hour last night. Sforza then hurried to another hour-long talk with Prime Minister Alcide De Gasperi. While the discussions were in progress, groups of Communists paraded before the government buildings chanting "Peace! Peace!" Riot police in jeeps kept the demonstration within limits.

Returns From Survey

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—William C. Foster, Economic Cooperation Administration chief, returned by air today from a 28-day survey of Southeast Asian countries receiving Marshall Plan aid. He took off from here for Washington, where he expects to confer with President Truman. Foster told reporters much had been accomplished in Southeast Asia by the aid program, but that there was great need for increased aid immediately, particularly in Japan, Formosa, Indo-China and Thailand.

Urges Aid for TB

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Acting Gov. Joe R. Hanley urges New Yorkers to help fight tuberculosis by buying Christmas Seals issued by the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health. Hanley yesterday proclaimed December "Christmas Seals Month" in the state. He said the work of the committee and other voluntary agencies was "indispensable" in the state's drive to wipe out tuberculosis within 20 years.

Calls on Countrymen

Seoul, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Korean republic's president called on his countrymen today for an all-out effort against the Chinese Reds, saying that Koreans have behind them "the vast strength of the United States" and "whatever weapons are necessary."

Pyongyang Attack

All travelers were checked rigidly at the capital's entrances.

Air observers reported 12,000 Chinese were swarming in an area only 25 miles northeast of Pyongyang.

At least three Red Chinese divisions were on the move south of the Chongchon river, the old line from which MacArthur launched his "end-the-war" offensive Nov. 24, just over a week ago.

Other Red divisions were rolling toward the Eighth Army's weakened right flank.

The flight from Pyongyang began after the fall of Songchon, road hub 30 miles northeast of the former Red capital. Front-line dispatches did not say when or how the Reds seized Songchon.

Try to Hold Line

American foot troops early Saturday launched a counterattack aiming to retake Songchon and anchor the eastern end of their new defense line in the town.

They drove nearly five miles in the first hours and were fighting within one mile of Songchon. But Chinese troops in strength were well south of the town.

While the Chinese mounted the second stage of their big offensive in the northwest, other Red forces were massing in remote central hills for an eastward smash to the Sea of Japan.

Winter-clad Chinese already had started moving on Wonsan, the big east coast seaport base of the U. S. 10th Corps which is fighting along an extended front in northeast Korea.

The Chinese launched their thrust from the Yangdok area 40 miles west of Wonsan.

This drive threatened to isolate the critically extended 10th Corps. It has thin American and South Korean columns scattered in long lines over a wide and mountainous area.

The hardest hit 10th Corps area was around Changjin reservoir, supplier of electric power to Manchuria.

There U. S. Seventh Division units trapped along the east shores fought their way into Hagaru, a town just south of Changjin.

Two U. S. First Marine regiments were fighting out toward the town along the west bank. Advance units were reported within four miles of Hagaru.

7th Chewed Up

The Seventh Division units which reached the town were badly chewed up, AP Correspondent Tom Stone reported from the northeast front. They suffered heavy losses both in men and equipment.

Hagaru, held by some marine units, is the springboard for retreat to Hamhung, east coast industrial city north of Wonsan. But the Reds blocked a seven-mile stretch of the road between Hagaru and Koto. They were reported closing in on Hagaru from the southeast, south and southwest.

To reach the coast, the marines will have to fight through an estimated three Red regiments which air observers said were being reinforced constantly.

With Chinese forces cutting in far behind this advanced position, the 17th's situation obviously would become precarious if it remained along the border.

The South Korean Capital Division along the east coast north of Changjin and only 40 miles from Soviet Siberia was in a similar dangerous position.

B-29 bombers slammed 160 tons of demolition and incendiary bombs Saturday at Chinese supply dumps and communications lines.

Allied planes dropped 250 tons of supplies and ammunition to marines and doughboys in the Changjin area who were sut-off from the Hamhung base.

Other planes roared over the northwest front, machinegunning, rocketing and bombing Chinese troops.

At one point mounted Chinese cavalry maintained close ranks in the face of blistering air attacks.

Plunges to Death

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Jay Vergil Scott, Jr., 32, of Houston, Tex., was killed today when he fell or jumped from an eighth floor window of an apartment house at 151 West 56th street. Police said that Scott and Don Dunphy of Jamaica, Queens, had been visiting at the apartment of Mrs. Winifred Nason, a registered nurse. They said Dunphy noticed that Scott was missing at 8:45 a. m. and found his body in a courtyard.

Area Members Attend Ritter's Installation

Three members of the Ulster County Real Estate Board attended a luncheon meeting at Albany on Friday during which C. Fred Ritter of Middletown was installed as president of the state association of real estate boards.

Members of the Ulster county board who attended were George Moore, president, F. T. Loomis, and Lawrence MacAvery, secretary. MacAvery was a member of the committee that planed the istallation. W. Sanford Durland of Orange county was toastmaster.

Benedict F. McGrath, of Westchester county, the retiring state president, was praised by the group for his work during the past year, and especially for his efforts in obtaining legislation affecting the various phases of the real estate business. Speakers included John D. Butt of New York, chairman of the owners' division; Robert J. Conan, Syracuse, president of the New York State Society of Real Estate Appraisers, and Harry P. Ruppert of Rochester, past president and chairman of the executive committee of the association.

Ritter, the new state president, is expected to be the guest of the Ulster County Real Estate Board at its annual meeting in January.

No More Men . . .

military leaders are not going to pick Korea as the place to fight World War 3."

Another said he had asked for a breakdown on disposition of the more than 2,250,000 U. S. troops President Truman said are now under arms. Of these MacArthur is reported commanding seven U.S. Divisions which would mean around 100,000 men.

Mr. Truman told Congress yesterday in asking for new military appropriations of $16,800,000,000 that because of the Communist agrression "we face the necessity of having to raise our sights, both in terms of manpower and in terms of production" beyond the previous goal of having 2,800,000 men under arms by next July 1.

The President didn't say so, but many in Congress believed that much of the proposed increase in manpower would be channeled toward Europe, rather than Asia. And it would be months in coming.

credit for instalment plan buying was slowed in October, when time-buying controls were tightened, to one-seventh the rate of any of the five preceding months.

Clamped on in mid-October, the curbs on credit for buying homes or cars, television sets, refrigerators and so on were about the first orders the government aimed at the civilian economy.

Neither appeared to have had a drastic general effect. Private homebuilding last month was the highest ever for a November—$1,020,000,000—and the total instalment debt forged to a new record high of $13,379,000,000 at November's start. But the rate of increase slacked off some and the squeeze-power will be reinforced shortly by cutbacks ordered in civilian use of important materials.

Trumans Leave for Game

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Truman, taking a brief respite from grave international problems, left for Philadelphia by train today to keep a long-standing promise to attend the Army-Navy football game. The President and Mrs. Truman arrived at Union Station 15 minutes before the 8:42 a. m. (EST) departure time and boarded a special train immediately. Their daughter, Margaret, had another engagement. The train, including the presidential bullet-proof private car, is due at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium at 11:28 a. m. It will return to Washington early tonight, departing from a siding near the stadium 30 minutes after the close of the game.

Government Will

of the county. For the past several years, accurate records of apples in 27 storages have been kept for the Farm Bureau for comparative purposes. These 27 storages represent about half the total storage holdings in the county.

On November 1, this year, the 27 storages reported a total of 946,959 bushels in storage. The same 27 storages reported 926,569 bushels on November 1, 1949. On November 1, 1948, the holding in those storages totaled 529,975. The 1947 holdings totaled 847,444 bushels, and the 1946 holdings, 660,588 bushels.

Figures for McIntosh holdings on November 1 at the 27 storages were 585,697 bushels in 1950; 509,080 bushels in 1949; 269,626 bushels in 1948; 454,597 bushels in 1947, and 282,400 bushels in 1946.

Holdings of Cortland apples showed a slight decrease from the 1949 holdings. There were 73,202 bushels of Cortlands in storage at 27 county storages November 1, 1950, compared to 85,203 bushels in 1949.

Northern Spy apples, on the other hand, showed a marked increase over past years. This year, the surveyed storages reported holding 35,488 bushels of that variety of apple, compared to 10,897 bushels in 1949 and 8,980 in 1948.

The gradual decline in the Ben Davis variety of apple is noticeable in a comparison of figures for the 27 storages. In 1946, holdings of 13,553 bushels of Ben Davis apples were reported. In 1947, the number of bushels was down to 9,975, and further decreased to 7,216 the following year. By 1949, only 3,556 bushels of this variety were in storage on November 1, and this year the total holdings dwindled to 1,055.

A recapitulation of the number of bushels of various varieties of apples in the 27 county storages on November 1, 1950, follows: McIntosh, 585,697; Cortland, 73,202; Red Delicious, 95,504; Golden Delicious, 31,662; Rome Beauty, 55,741; Baldwin, 27,150; R. I. Greening, 17,059; N. Spy, 35,468; Ben Davis, 1,055; Staymen, 5,173; Newtown Pippins, 2,552; Wealthy, 550; others, 16,126.

Secret Session . . .

trying to force Washington's views on them.

Just what these views are he refused to say, but declared they would be made public later unless there are unforeseen complications at an international level.

The ambassador from one country, which has made a substantial contribution to the fighting forces in Korea, predicted that:

1. The Assembly would be asked to condemn the Chinese Reds as aggressors and request them to withdraw.

2. If they fail to comply—and if the first resolution was passed with an impressive majority—the Assembly would be asked to recommend that U.N. members use their military units to enforce compliance.

Under this second possible resolution Gen. MacArthur would have the implied authority to take whatever steps he considered necessary to end the Chinese Communist menace to U.N. forces now fighting in Korea.

It is not known if these are the American views now being discussed secretly with other countries.

Most delegations here are extremely reluctant to take any step which would irrevocably mean war with China and possibly Russia. They have made it clear, however, that they are equally determined not to back away from the U.N. commitment in Korea.

Gets 40 Days

Libes Freenman, 22, of Lattintown was sentenced to a total of 40 days in jail by Justice of the Peace Fred Woolsey of Marlborough Friday night on charges of operating a vehicle with improper registration plates and without an operator's license. State police at Highland said Freenman was arrested on a routine check.

Nine Catholics Are

fine for Premonstrate Abbot Stanislav Jarolimek, 50, of the Strahov Monastery in Prague.

The nine defendants, seated at first with each sandwiched between two khaki-clad policemen, rose to hear their sentence. They faced the tribunal slightly bowed and gave no outward signs of emotion.

The sentencing over, the convicted clerics were asked whether they planned to appeal. The nine conferred briefly with their attorneys. Then each defendant took the witness stand to say that he accepted the judgment.

Had Helped Prosecution

All nine had cooperated with the prosecution. They confessed to the charges against them and declared their repentence — asserting that the church heirarchy had led them into anti-state activities.

Defense lawyers conceded their clients' guilt but stressed extenuating circumstances.

The six other churchmen sentenced today were:

Father Joseph Cihak, 70-year-old prelate archdeacon of the Metropolitan Chapter at St. Vitus Cathedral in Prague—10 years and 150,000 crowns or one extra year in prison in lieu of the fine.

Father Jaroslav Kulac, 63, head of the Missionary Federation of Clergy—17 years and 40,000 crowns.

Father Antonin Mandl, 37, former secretary of the Catholic Action group here—25 years and 20,000 crowns.

Msgr. Jan Boukal, 44, first secretary to Prague Archbishop Joseph Beran—18 years and 50,000 crowns.

Father Vaclav Mrtvy, 43, Salesian priest—15 years and 10,000 crowns.

Father Otakar Svec, Pope's prelate and metropolitan canon—20 years and 50,000 crowns.

All nine men in addition were deprived of their citizens' rights for 10 years.

Alerted for Elections

Berlin, Dec. 2 (AP)—West Berlin's strongly armed police force went on a special alert today to guard against threatened Communist violence in the city election beginning at midnight. Police Chief Johannes Stumm, with 138,000 men under his command, ordered motorized riot squads concentrated at key stations in the allied sectors, as West Berliners prepared to elect a municipal government for the next four years.
